Final section of handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a concluding statement.

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the humidity. It was like a warm blanket that wouldn't let go.
 The air was thick and sticky, and I could feel it on my skin. I had heard that the weather was bad, but I didn't realize how bad it would be. The humidity was overwhelming. I had never experienced anything like this before. It was a completely new experience. I had to adjust to the heat. I had to learn to live with it. I had to find ways to stay cool. I had to embrace the heat.
 It was a challenge, but I knew I had to do it. I had to survive. I had to thrive. I had to become one with the heat. I had to let it take over. I had to let it be my friend. I had to let it be my guide. I had to let it be my everything. I had to let it be my life.

The humidity was a double-edged sword. It was both a blessing and a curse. It was a blessing because it was so warm. It was a curse because it was so sticky. I had to find a way to survive. I had to find a way to thrive. I had to find a way to become one with the heat. I had to find a way to let it be my friend. I had to find a way to let it be my guide. I had to find a way to let it be my everything.
