

What is the

British Georgian Chamber of Commerce?

Georgia is attracting increasing foreign investment and also expanding into international markets. The British-Georgian Chamber of Commerce (BGCC) works to give practical help to British and Georgian companies in establishing and developing their contacts and enterprises in both countries.

With offices and affiliates in London and Tbilisi and senior representation from both countries at Advisory Council level, the BGCC brings together decision-makers from business and state to share information and create opportunities.

BGCC's experience and bilateral network of members means that we are uniquely placed to facilitate activities including marketing, trade missions and network-building events to help you gain and sustain contacts essential to business.

BGCC works closely with embassies and relevant ministries in order to link visits and co-ordinate project announcements with creation of opportunities for members.

BGCC provides the support services you would expect from a chamber of commerce, including: market research and promotion, translation/interpreting, business introductions and logistics.

What they say about the

British Georgian Chamber of Commerce...

PX 4547/1

We value the work done by BGCC.

The British Georgian Chamber of Commerce (BGCC) has been doing a fantastic job for over five years in promoting UK businesses in Georgia and supporting Georgian producers to establish their presence in the UK. My Embassy has worked with the BGCC and other key organisations in delivering UK's Prosperity Agenda in Georgia and I am pleased that over the years BGCC gained a good reputation among the business sector and governments of both countries. I truly hope that the newly established BGCC's representative office in Tbilisi will further develop business ties between the UK and Georgia. It is my pleasure to be an Honorary Member of the BGCC from 2013.

ALEXANDRA HALL HALL,
HER MAJESTY'S AMBASSADOR TO GEORGIA

BP is Britain's largest public company and Georgia's largest foreign investor. In recent years we have seen Georgia re-emerge as a strategic crossroads for trade and an increasingly important destination for inward investment. The work of organisations such as the BGCC is vital in continuing this positive trend and we are proud to support it.

BP GEORGIA

BGCC is a professional link for companies looking for external investment or to make connections in UK.
