GREEN MOVEMENT TERROR

The wheel of time is an idea found in religions throughout the world. Rejecting the idea of progress and optimism, it proclaims that time is cyclical in character and consists of repeating ages. While dismissing the literal truth of this pessimistic idea of determinism promoted by religions such as Hinduism and Buddhism, civilized people in the West have been confronted by a nightmare over the past one hundred years. They have been confronted by the spectacle of the West reverting to its founding Dark Age, when religion shut down the mind of man and the Catholic Church locked free people into chains. They have been confronted by the onset of a new age of religion which has declared war on the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment. They have been confronted by the monstrous form of a clock floating through space, careening and turning every which way, whose hands are racing backward into the year zero, and have been compelled to conclude that the progress of the West has been reversed, and time has formed a circle surrounding and asphyxiating the advancements achieved by reason and freedom. Commencing in the early years of the twentieth century, the age of religion consists of some doctrines new, some doctrines old, together forming a witches' brew of mental torture and destruction without precedent in the history of mankind. To a resurgent Christianity, Islam and Orthodox Judaism have been added the Marxist religions of gender, race and class, advocating for black power, feminism and the proletariat, and the religion of radical environmentalism, advocating for the reversion of mankind to the savage jungle and the elimination of all civilization. The religion of radical environmentalism marks the end of line of a dark train ride called civilizational collapse, and is the last stop as the train crashes, burns and buries the Earth in the wreckage of states, laws and traditions of freedom, renounced by people grown weary and exhausted by the demands of rational human flourishing. The religion has many names: animal rights, deep ecology, earth liberation, extinction rebellion, green syndicalism, guerrilla gardening, veganarchism, anarcho-primitivism, the monkey wrench gang, Earth first! and deep green resistance. But they all spell the same idea and point to the same mental disorder which says that civilization is a source of environmental degradation and is an assault on the mystical, sacred, nonhuman world, and must be eliminated. Look inside this disorder and hear a series of proclamations which defy the imagination of civilized people. They can scarcely believe what they hear and scarcely believe that a segment of the population has plunged headlong into blazing, white hot waters roiling with insanity. This disorder proclaims that a progressive society advocates violence against the innocent in order to save the planet. It proclaims that a progressive society has blown up the roads and arteries of modernity in order to fend off environmental catastrophe. It proclaims that a progressive society is a climate activist society which seeks to reverse the Industrial Revolution. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects all efforts to achieve peaceful reform and detonates bombs at oil pipelines in order reduced greenhouse gas emissions. It proclaims that a progressive society is a terrorist society which has placed homes, schools and offices under a state of siege in the name of defending Mother Earth. It proclaims that a progressive society promotes the sabotage of industry and technology in the name of protecting the air, water, trees and animals. It proclaims that a progressive society sacrifices national security on the altar of protecting wildlife. It proclaims that a progressive society is a climate movement which advocates trespass, disruption and interference against people and property in the name of preventing ecological collapse. It proclaims that a progressive society has destroyed the fossil fuel industry in the name of protecting mystical human existence. It proclaims that a progressive society is a revolutionary society which advocates for civilizational destruction in the name of protecting the landscape against desecration. It proclaims that a progressive society has stopped fossil fuel extraction in the name of protecting the Earth's sacred sites. It proclaims that a progressive society has destroyed the tools of material progress and prosperity in the name of achieving mystical harmony and tranquility with the

Earth. It proclaims that a progressive society has destroyed the foundations of the technical world in the name of protecting the mystical energy connections between man and the universe. It proclaims that a progressive society is a people's populist, democratic movement to smash the wheels of industry and technology in the name of honoring the ancestors and the supernatural spirits. It proclaims that a progressive society has canceled all industrial and infrastructural development projects in the name of showing reverence and respect for the planet. It proclaims that a progressive society is an emotional, heartfelt call to war to the community of higher individuals who commune with the Earth, a call to wipe out the progress of one thousand years. It proclaims that the destruction of civilization and the reduction of mankind to the savage jungle is an act of liberation on par with the overthrow of dictators and the liberation of women and blacks: "Harvard Law School scrubbed its website of an event page advertising a screening of the film How To Blow Up A Pipeline amid concerns about endorsing violence. Internet archives how the event page was removed sometime between Friday and Tuesday when The College Fix noticed it was gone. A post advertising the screening on Harvard's Systemic Justice Project website also was removed prior to the event. How to Blow Up A Pipeline is a fictional story about climate activists who blow up a section of pipe in Texas, according to the film's website. The trailer opens with a man building a homemade explosive and ends with police arriving at the site of a pipeline that has been blown up. The characters call the bombing 'justified' and 'an act of self defense.' It is unclear if the Wednesday evening screening was canceled, rescheduled, or still took place. The Fix contacted the HLS Film Society, communications office, and event moderator Professor Jon Hanson by email and phone Tuesday asking if the event had been canceled. None replied. The Fix also reached out to the film society, Hanson, and the communications office March 28 with questions regarding the concerns about the film endorsing violence and university organizers' stance on peaceful advocacy. The film screening drew criticism online in recent weeks, including concerns that Harvard may be supporting violent activism. Critics include US Representative Mike Bost, an Illinois Republican, who said in a March 28 post on X that violent acts like those portrayed in the film are the reason he supports harsher penalties for ecoterrorism. The fact that Harvard is planning to show 'How To Blow Up A Pipeline' is ridiculous. This film promotes ecoterrorism and is a risk to our national security. That's why I introduced the Pipeline Sabotage and Accident Prevention Act To Punish Ecoterrorism--Representative Mike Bost. Others pointed to the film website's Take Action which displays a map of US oil and gas pipelines and a message about legislation and antifossil fuel activism. 'Many of these bills transform misdemeanors like trespassing on, disrupting, or otherwise interfering with operations at critical infrastructure facilities into felony charges,' the page states. 'If we want to survive we must protect the revolutionaries who take necessary actions to fight the fossil fuel industry and protect our existence.' The message is followed by a list of links to antifossil fuel activist groups. Harvard's screening announcement described the event for those interested in 'environmental activism and/or excellent filmmaking.' It stated the film screening would be followed by a conversation moderated by Hanson with writer and director Daniel Goldhaber. The Fix contacted the film production and distribution company Neon Rated and filmmakers Goldhaber and Daniel Garber by email last week and again Wednesday with questions about why the website includes a map of US pipelines and if the filmmakers are committed to only nonviolent advocacy. None responded. The film is based on a nonfiction 2021 book of the same name by Andreas Malm, a human ecology professor at Lund University in Sweden and climate activist. The publisher's synopsis describes the book as 'an impassioned call for the climate movement to escalate its tactics in the face of ecological collapse.' " (Harvard Scrubs 'How To Blow Up A Pipeline' Film Info From Website by Kate Roberson). On March 11, 1811, in Nottingham, England, a crowd of workers smashed the machinery of the textile factory there. Soon a wave of industrial sabotage spread across England, from Loughborough in the south to Wakefield in the north, which saw factories set on fire and machinery reduced to rubble. This was a movement of civilization haters founded by one Ned Ludd, a weaver from Anstey, England, who began smashing knitting machines in fits of misanthropic rage in 1779. In the twentieth century, the Luddites returned dressed in the robes of a formal religion. In the present day, their rage has composed the epitaph of the West.

SWASTIKA SKIES

It is 15,000 years old. It first appeared on an ivory figure of a female bird in the Paleolithic settlement of Mezin near the Russian border. For thousands of years, it was a symbol of well being and good fortune. It was used by Hindus, Buddhists and Jains. It was used by the ancient Celts and Anglo-Saxons. The ancient Greeks used it as an architectural motif and used it to decorate their pots and vases. In the twelfth century AD, it was found on the dress collar of a Slavic princess, embroidered there to ward off evil. In the 1930s, its benign use came to a halt. Adopted by the Third Reich and appearing on its flag, it became a symbol of fear, hatred, suppression and extermination. It is the swastika, and its transformation in the twentieth century tells the story of our times and the descent of civilization into barbarism. The swastika rolled down the corridors of history, in a movement commencing in the earliest epochs of mankind, and saw its final stop in the darkness of national socialism and its offshoots. It became the black straight armed hakenkreuz on a white circle and red background, the symbol of Hitler's Germany and the new religion which had taken hold of the nation as nothing else was. But it was more than this. It was the symbol of the mutation of an idea born in the nineteenth century. Invented by Marx, this was the idea of political tribalism. Rejecting the philosophy of human essentialism and universalism championed in the Enlightenment, Marx divided mankind into two warring camps. He called these camps the proletariat and the bourgeois, and exalted the proletariat as a master class destined by the iron laws of history to exterminate the bourgeois. The advent of the swastika as a symbol of national socialist race hatred marked a mutation of Marxism. Class hatred mutated into race hatred, one religion of tribalism mutated into another, and the first offshoot of Marx's religion was born. The method of Marxism and the method of national socialism are one and the same. It is the method of viewing man and society through the lenses of tribes and not viewing individuals as individuals. It is the method which proclaims that only tribes possess rights and individuals possess no rights. As the twentieth century marched on, Marxism would experience further mutations and create more offshoots. The mid twentieth century saw the rise of black power Marxism and feminist Marxism. By the end of the century, a triple headed monster appeared on the scene, marked Gender, Race and Class Politics, and commencing a rampage in the name of women, nonwhites and the poor, it conquered the West and wrote the final chapter of the West's story, a story which scaled heights of glory during the Enlightenment, and descended into disgrace in the neoMarxist religion of gender, race and class politics. The first mutation of Marxism was national socialism, and under its terrifying sign, the sign of the swastika, the monster of gender, race and class politics would conquer the Earth. Listen to this monster's war against reason, science, sanity and freedom. It proclaims that a progressive society is a cultural revolution which has reduced every aspect of life and thought to an expression of black politics and ideology. It proclaims that there is no such thing as science as such or mathematics as such and the belief that there are is an Enlightenment superstition. There is in fact a black science and a white science, and a black mathematics and a white mathematics, and a progressive society enforces black science and black mathematics. It proclaims that the belief that two plus two equal four is a product of white ways of thinking. It proclaims that the belief that all things are as they are is a product of white paternalism. It proclaims that the belief that science is empirical and objective is a product of hatred of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society is a leftwing society which has place the hard sciences and the quantitative sciences in the service of the needs and interests of the black community.

It proclaims that the most prestigious awards in science, including the Nobel Prize, the Fields Medal and the Turing Award, should be awarded to blacks because they are blacks. It proclaims that the belief that there is a right answer and a wrong answer to a scientific question, and what is right is right and what is wrong is wrong, is an instrument of a white race war to exterminate blacks. It proclaims that progressive mathematics has rejected actual instruction in mathematics and teaches students how to be social justice warriors on behalf of the black race. It proclaims that progressive mathematics is black activist mathematics which exalts the black will to power and revolution. It proclaims that the traditional requirement that mathematics students show their work and provide proof of their results is racist and unfairly discriminates against mathematically illiterate blacks. It proclaims that accelerated mathematics programs for gifted students unfairly exclude idle, indolent, shiftless blacks. It proclaims that progressive courses in science, technology, engineering and mathematics give preferential treatment to black students and lower standards for blacks in the name of achieving diversity, equity and inclusion in the classroom. It proclaims that progressive mathematics rejects instruction in algebra, calculus and the foundational skills necessary for proper mathematical success, and is course of indoctrination in black national socialism and the subversion of liberal democracy: "Saying two plus two equals four may now be problematic. One of the key aspects of the left wing cultural revolution that's taken over America's most powerful institutions is how it injects its politics and ideology into literally everything. That includes science, and now math. Many states and school districts are embracing woke math for K-12 students, intentionally lowering standards and changing math curriculum to focus on attacking 'white supremacy' and 'paternalism' while denying objectivity. There are at least some within these institutions now speaking out in opposition. A group of hundreds of distinguished quantitative scientists put out a public statement condemning the transformation of science and math curriculum. 'The growing list of 471 signatories includes four winners of the Fields Medal in math; two winners of the Turing Award in computing; a Nobel laureate in physics and another in chemistry; 25 members of the National Academy of Sciences; and faculty at Stanford, Berkeley, CalTech, MIT and every top US university for hard science,' The Wall Street Journal reported. In the statement, the scientists explain why woke math will not only erode American competitiveness globally, it will also hold many students back from achievement and success. The scientists noted California's new math curriculum framework being considered by the state's department of education as particularly harmful. The 800 page document, based in dubious, would further transform the California public education system into a series of social justice activist boot camps. The new curriculum relies heavily on a program called A Pathway to Equitable Math Instruction. 'The concept of mathematics being purely objective is unequivocally false, and teaching it is even much less so,' a document for the program reads. 'Upholding the idea that there are always right and wrong answers perpetuate objectivity as well as fear of open conflict.' Under the new framework, coursework will be transformed to dismantle 'racism' in math. What is an example of racism in math? Asking students to show their work, apparently. Besides reorienting math instruction away from teaching math to teaching students to be social justice warriors, it also calls for the elimination of accelerated programs for gifted students. The group of scientists explained in its statement that the elimination of these programs would only superficially reduce disparities among students. In fact, the group noted, it may increase them substantially: 'While it is possible to succeed in [science, technology, engineering, and mathematics] at college without taking advanced courses in high school, it is more challenging.'" (Scientists Take a Stand Against Woke Math by Jarrett Stepman). The history of evil is encapsulated in five symbols emanating from the East and West. They span five thousand years and the ideas they signify have closed off the story of civilization in the twenty first century. The star of David represents Judaism, born five thousand years ago in the Bronze Age in the Middle East, the religion which first brought mankind the curse of blind faith, blind submission and the devaluation of this world in favor of a supernatural antiexistence which can never be perceived. The cross represents the first offshoot of Judaism called Christianity, and continues the Jewish assault on reason in the name of Jesus, the Son of God and the Messiah. The star and crescent represents the second offshoot of Judaism called Islam, and continues the Jewish assault on reason in the name of the Quran and the teachings of Muhammad. The hammer and sickle represents the third offshoot of Judaism called Marxism, and continues the Jewish assault on reason in the name of class war and the liberation of the proletariat. The fifth symbol is the swastika and represents Satan's final volley in his five thousand year old campaign of destruction. It is the symbol of national socialism and continues the Jewish assault on reason in the name of race war and a master race called the Aryans. While officially antisemitic and advocating for the extermination of Jews, national socialism has Jewish roots insofar as it is an offshoot of Marxism and continues the Marxist assault on reason. Hitler's swastika stands for a host of neobrownshirt movements active today advocating for race war and the extermination of whites by blacks. The swastika is present everywhere black power exists and everywhere hate exists. It is emblazoned across the skies of the twenty first century, kept alive by the forces of civilizational collapse.

GERMANY CANCELS SCIENCE

Its contributions to science and technology comprise a shining, illustrious history. This history commenced in the fifteenth century and would define the meaning of the word progress as nothing else would. The march of its heroes ignited a fireworks display of human achievement which lit up the world's skies and revealed what the mind is capable of if given sufficient freedom and encouragement. Look at the spectacular show; look at Gutenberg, Kepler, Humboldt, Gauss, Helmholtz, Fraunhofer, Fahrenheit, Roentgen, Leibig, Hertz, Koch, Benz, Lilienthal, Braun, Hahn, Ehrlich, Haber, von Braun, Zuse, Geiger, Einstein, Planck and Heisenberg; look at this gallery and see the crowning glory of the West, the exaltation of reason, encrusted with flaming, dazzling jewels. This history came to an end in the twentieth century with the rise of a dark religion. It came to an end with the rise of national socialism and its terror apparatus, the Third Reich. Before the advent of Hitler's new order, this nation had produced more Nobel laureates in science than any other nation in the world and its language was the world's language of science. This nation is Germany and for the past one hundred years, commencing with the brownshirts' overthrow of the Weimar Republic, it has enacted a tragedy of world historical proportions. This former lighthouse of systematic, nonpartisan inquiry, providing hope and guidance amidst storms of fear and ignorance, has become its chief assassin. This former arsenal of empirical investigation has become a magazine of guns and bombs which has blown it up. This former laboratory for research and development has become a hermetically sealed ideological echo chamber. This former citadel of rational enlightenment has become a wasteland razed to the ground by the armies of religion. Over the past one hundred years, Germany, which led the world in physics, mathematics, chemistry, engineering and technology, has fallen under sustained attack by religionists of all stripes and varieties, and done something which civilized people have found inconceivable and imagination defying. Over the past one hundred years, Germany has allowed a cancer consuming the West to advance by a quantum leap, and this preeminent teacher and master of science has under its baneful influence canceled science within its borders. The cancer began spreading throughout the West in the early years of the twentieth century from a tumor implanted by Marx's majorities. This was the tumor of tribal politics, and during the Third Reich it brought into power a race version of Marx's class politics. In the middle of the twentieth century it metastasized into a super triple headed monster called Gender, Race and Class Politics. Commencing with the Third Reich, Germany has opened its gates to the nightmare creature of Marxism and allowed it to maul apart its hallowed science. Aryan Physics. The nation's first attack on science saw the establishment of an Aryan Physics movement during the Third Reich. Replacing Marxist class war by national socialist race war, this movement sought to expel Jewish physicists from universities and replace them by physicists held to be members of the Aryan race. Antinuclear Movement. The second attack came in the twenty first century and saw the formation of an antinuclear movement born from Marxist class politics. The new religionists proclaimed that nuclear energy equals nuclear disaster despite nuclear energy's record reaching over decades of being the safest form of mass energy generation. They proclaimed that a progressive society has decommissioned its nuclear reactors and reverted to the Dark Ages. They proclaimed that a progressive society has switched off its nuclear reactors and repealed the Industrial Revolution. They proclaimed that a progressive society has ended the nuclear age and descended into prehistoric ages stagnating on the plains and forests. They proclaimed that a progressive society has exited from nuclear energy in the name of world peace and protecting the planet. They proclaimed that nuclear energy, the cleanest and cheapest form of mass energy generation known to man, must be defamed as dangerous, unsustainable and costly in the name of advancing progressive politics. They proclaimed that a progressive society organizes mass rallies celebrating the closure of nuclear energy and the closure of the modern civilization. They proclaimed that a progressive society has restricted energy supplies by abandoning nuclear power and forced consumers to pay higher prices in the name of the people's politics of radical environmentalism. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a jurassic society and a caveman society ruled by noble savages without power or efficacy of any kind. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a fanatical society blind to science, biased against modernity, energized with hatred of mankind, and worshipping at the altars of the air, the water, the trees and the animals: "Germany switched off its last three nuclear reactors on Saturday, exiting atomic power even as it seeks to wean itself off fossil fuels and manage an energy crisis caused by the war in Ukraine. While many Western countries are upping their investments in atomic energy to reduce their emissions, Germany brought an early end to its nuclear age. It's 'the end of an era,' the RWE energy firm said in a statement shortly after midnight confirming the three reactors had been disconnected from the electricity grid. Europe's largest economy has been looking to leave behind nuclear power since 2002, but the phase out was accelerated by former chancellor Angela Merkel in 2011 after the Fukushima nuclear disaster in Japan. The exit decision was popular in a country with a powerful antinuclear movement, stoked by lingering fears of a Cold War conflict and atomic disasters such as Chernobyl in Ukraine. 'The risks of nuclear power are ultimately unmanageable,' said Environment Minister Steffi Lemke, who this week made a pilgrimage to the ill fated Japanese plant ahead of a G7 meeting in the country. Antinuclear demonstrators took to the streets in several German cities to mark the closures. Greenpeace, at the heart of the antinuclear movement, organized a celebratory party at the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin. 'We are putting an end to a dangerous, unsustainable and costly technology,' said Green MP Juergen Trittin. In front of the Brandenburg Gate, activists symbolically slayed a model dinosaur. Initially planned for the end of 2022, Germany's nuclear exit was delayed as Russian gas supplies dwindled. Germany, the largest emitter in the European Union, also powered up some of its mothballed coal fueled plants to cover the potential gap left by gas. The challenging energy situation had increased calls domestically for the exit from nuclear to be delayed. Germany had to 'expand the supply of energy and not restrict it any further' in light of potential shortages and high prices, the president of the German chamber of commerce Peter Adrian told the Rheinische Post daily. Friedrich Merz, leader of the opposition CDU party, said the abandonment of nuclear power was the result of an 'almost fanatical bias'. Meanwhile the conservative daily FAZ headlined its Saturday edition Thanks, nuclear energy, as it listed benefits it said nuclear had brought the country over the years. Outside observers have been similarly irked by Germany's insistence on exiting nuclear while ramping up its coal usage, with climate activist Greta Thunberg in October slamming the move as 'a mistake'." (Germany Ends Nuclear Era As Last Reactors Power Down, from Agence France Presse, April 15, 2023). Transgenderism. The third attack came in the twenty first century and saw legitimacy granted to a movement which denies the existence of sex chromosomes. This movement is called transgenderism and it proclaims that one hundred years of scientific research, reaching back to the pioneering investigations of Edmund Wilson and Nettie Stevens, establishing the genetic basis of gender, do not exist. It proclaims that scientific research establishing that human males possess XY chromosomes and human females possess XX chromosomes is false. It proclaims that gender has no relation to biological facts and can be changed by human interventions such as drugs or surgery, or even by a simple declaration and belief that one is a member of the opposite sex. It proclaims that a progressive society allows people who say they are members of the opposite sex to possess all the legal rights of members of this sex. It proclaims that a progressive society gives legal recognition to a multiplicity of genders, including biological male and female genders, together with imaginary, nonbiological transgenders, nongenders, third genders and contradictory genders, and has signed a certificate and registry of mental illness and civilizational collapse: "The German parliament has passed a law making it easier for citizens and residents to legally change gender. It's also introducing hefty fines--in specific circumstances--for disclosing someone's prior registered name or gender without consent. Previously, changing your registered gender required a doctor's certificate and the approval of a family court. Now over 18s can change to male, female or diverse, a third gender option that already exists under German law. Three months on from a request for such a change, applicants will then have to appear at a registry office in person. You can also request that no details regarding your gender are registered at all. The intentional and harmful disclosure of someone's prior name or legal gender could attract a fine of up to €10,000. However, there are exceptions - for example if it's a legal requirement due to court proceedings or police investigations. First names will need to represent the new legal gender--so a male entry requires a recognized male first name while a female entry requires a recognized female first name. Fourteen to 18 year olds will need the consent of parents or legal guardians, while under 14s will need their parents or legal guardians to make the declaration. No further change or reversion can be made within 12 months of an application being granted. The law allows for those operating spaces--such as women's gyms and changing rooms - to still decide who has access to them. Applications from male to female or to diverse, made less than two months prior to a national defense emergency, will be put on hold. The new rules will come into effect on 1 November having been promised in the 'traffic light' coalition agreement. Chancellor Olaf Scholz said: 'We show respect to trans, intersex and nonbinary people--without taking anything away from others. This is how we continue to drive the modernization of our country. This includes recognizing realities of life and making them possible by law.' " (Germany Eases Gender Change Rules by Jessica Parker). He was Chief of Aryan Physics during the Third Reich. In his book Great Men In Science, A History Of Scientific Progress, he claims that all the great contributions to science were made by Aryans while Jewish scientists have sought to poison science. His name was Philip Lenard and his spirit has been kept alive for a century This is the spirit of antisience, pseudoscience, politicized science and ideologically based science. Fed by the satanic fury of Marxism and its offshoots, it has canceled German science with stamp marks reading racial science, antinuclear movement and transgender movement.

JOE BIDEN BEHIND BARS

It was a place from which the sole exit was death and tens of thousands of souls fled from it through this dark door. Today it is an overgrown jungle, but for one hundred years, from 1853 to 1953, it lived in infamy. It imprisoned eighty thousand men, none of whom survived. Circled by sharks and ruled by sadists, it was a black hole of unmitigated evil which swallowed up French Guiana. This penal colony ringed by starvation, beatings, burial alive and confinement unfit for animals was called Devil's Island and for a century it was the shame of the French Empire. Reeling back in horror at this nightmare of living death which stained the northeastern coast of South America, civilized people have imagined that it would have been redeemed had it housed a certain man. Its reputation would have been rehabilitated had it confined him. Its profile would have been raised had it subjected him to its harsh regime. Civilized people have imagined that the greatest criminal operating in the greatest nation of freedom in modern times would have justified Devil's Island had he been one of its doomed inmates. The combination of being the greatest criminal committing his crimes in the world's lighthouse of freedom has compelled civilized people to view punishment in the most notorious prison in the West as a commandment of justice. His name is Joe Biden; his nation is the United States of America; and his crime was to sell the office of vice president which he occupied during the Obama administration, to demand and receive bribes totaling tens of millions of dollars, and to embroil the federal government in a level of corruption without precedent in the history of free societies. Look at America in the twenty first century and see Joe Biden's tenure as vice president define criminal activities as they have never been defined before. See the office of the vice president sullied by kickbacks and influence peddling as it has never been sullied before. See Joe Biden use a disguised email address with which to commit his crimes. See a case developed to impeach, remove and jail a political figure as solid and incontrovertible as the noonday sun. See Joe Biden provide American taxpayer funds to the Burisma energy company in exchange for giving it access to his office and giving his son a seat on the company's board of directors and employment as a company lawyer, positions for he was paid eleven million dollars. See Joe Biden and his son Hunter each paid five million dollars in exchange for Joe Biden's influence in removing the prosecutor investigating Burisma's corruption. See Obama administration official Jake Sullivan utilize special descriptors to conceal Ukraine's identity and Joe's Biden's crimes. See Joe Biden conduct an extortion operation against Ukraine, and in the shame of the nation, see it ignored by law enforcement authorities, see reportage on it censored by the media authorities, and see those who exposed it tarred, feathered and hurled into a void of civil nonexistence: "Mike McCormick, who served as Joe Biden's stenographer traveling with him around the world including to Ukraine, recently published a book revealing what he saw, which included criminal activity in regards to the Burisma kickback scheme. The Case To Impeach And Imprison Joe Biden lays out probably the most comprehensive account ever written about the scheme. McCormick became aware of the criminal nature of the activity after poring over the emails on Hunter Biden's laptop, which allowed him to put it all together. 'When I worked for him, I thought Joe was harmless—egotistical, buffoonish, and unpresidential, but harmless,' he said. 'Now I think of him as an evil criminal who should be impeached and imprisoned.' McCormick served as Biden's stenographer when he was vice president from 2011 to 2017, transcribing every speech and interview. He said he personally witnessed Biden negotiate the Burisma kickback scheme—US funding to Ukrainian energy, primarily Burisma, in exchange for putting Hunter Biden on Burisma's board of directors—on a trip to Poland in 2014. He came to a lot of conclusions that other reporters haven't figured out, due to his unique position and intensive study of this issue. McCormick cross referenced what he witnessed with the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop, and posted some of the most alarming findings from it at JoeBidenUnauthorized.com. One of his observations was that Hunter likely did not author some of his emails, pointing out signs indicating that, such as using the complex word imprudent and suggesting strategy that he wasn't intellectually capable of. McCormick believes they were probably authored by Ted Kaufman, a close associate of his father's and former senator from Delaware who was digging into Ukrainian politics at the time. Joe Biden used a disguised email address for these communications. McCormick had access to details that many investigative journalists would not. For example, Jake Sullivan, who served in various capacities under Obama, gave the press a briefing on a trip to Ukraine, and his name was withheld from official documents. But since McCormick was sitting next to him, he knew it was him. McCormick said the

'evidence of the crime' was right there in the briefing, 'right when Sullivan declares that Joe's US taxpayer supported energy assistance for all of Ukraine will be directed to extract unconventional gas resources' and support 'energy efficiency.' He pointed out how Sullivan cleverly altered the wording from shale gas to unconventional gas resources to disguise it. Burisma was only one of a handful of Ukrainian companies with a license for fracking at that time. Hunter's hard drive revealed that he and his company received $11 million for being on the board of Burisma and conducting attorney work for the company, despite the fact Hunter had no related background experience before he served in those positions. An FBI document revealed that Biden and Hunter were each paid $5 million to get a Ukrainian prosecutor investigating Burisma removed. McCormick pointed out that there is no statute of limitations on this type of crime. The Burisma kickback scheme would have likely never been exposed if Hunter hadn't left his laptop at the repair store. McCormick reported his findings to the FBI—showing how firmly he believed crimes were committed; considering if he was wrong, he could be prosecuted. But no one has ever asked him to give sworn testimony, not even Republican members of Congress, although they spoke with him. Inside Edition interviewed him, then never aired the interview. Tellingly, the Ukrainian prosecutor closed all investigations into Burisma in March 2021, and Burisma was dissolved in 2023. McCormick was kicked off Twitter in 2021 for posting a photo of Biden, Obama and a few others with the caption, 'Every single person in this photo knew Joe Biden was shaking down Ukraine through his sleazy son Hunter. Every. Single. One.' He's back on X in the Elon Musk era." (Joe Biden's Former Stenographer Publishes Book On Why He Should be In Prison by Rachel Alexander)." Look at America in the twenty first century and see Joe Biden threaten to withhold one billion dollars from Ukraine if its government did not fire prosecutor Viktor Shokin, who was investigating Burisma's illicit payments to Biden and his son. See Joe Biden publicly boast on global television about his successful threat to the government. See the Ukrainian government's investigations of corruption at Burisma involving Biden and his son, and its attempt to protect transparency and the rule of law in the nation, stopped dead in its tracks from fear of reprisals by America: "True Fact: Joe Biden threatened to withhold $1 billion from Ukraine if the Ukrainian government didn't fire the prosecutor who was investigating the Ukrainian energy company Burisma, which Hunter Biden served on the board of. Then Vice President Biden pressed the Ukrainian government in 2015 to fire prosecutor Viktor Shokin, who was probing Burisma Holdings while Hunter was being paid over $80,000 a month to sit on the board. Biden threatened to withhold US aid over the prosecutor's firing and boasted about the move during a 2018 appearance at the Council of Foreign Relations. 'I said, I'm telling you, you're not getting the billion dollars. I said, you're not getting the billion. I'm going to be leaving here in, I think it was about six hours,' Biden told the audience. 'I looked at them and said: I'm leaving in six hours. If the prosecutor is not fired, you're not getting the money. Well, son of a bitch. He got fired. And they put in place someone who was solid at the time,' he continued. In 2019, Shokin reportedly told Rudy Giuliani he was instructed to back off his investigation of Burisma at the time of the threat. Breitbart News reported at the time: 'Details of Giuliani's interview with former Ukraine prosecutor Viktor Shokin affirm Shokin was told to halt his investigation into Burisma Holdings, which Hunter Biden served on the board of, due to the vice president's actions. The former prosecutor indicated that the 'investigations stopped out of fear of the United States.' " ('My Son Hunter' True Fact: Joe Biden Threatened To Withhold $1 Billion From Ukraine Unless They Fired The Prosecutor Investigating The Company That Hired Hunter by Emma Jo Morris). Maat. Isis. Themis. Dike. Justitia. Lady Justice. An allegory and personification of the moral basis of a proper judicial system. Symbolizing fairness and equity in the attempt to give people what is due to them and what they deserve, her attributes are scales, symbols of judgment, a sword, symbol of authority, and a blindfold, symbol of impartiality. She is five thousand years old; she was venerated in ancient civilizations throughout history; but she roams the Earth in the present day ignored by nations.

Her demands are unmet. She demands jail for Joe Biden and the restoration of American freedom and greatness.

WHY PEOPLE HATE TRUMP

It is an iron law of politics that in any democratic society, the majority will lead it into its doom. It is an iron law that the majority of the people will launch class wars and street brawls to take away freedom and confiscate the wealth of their neighbors. It is an iron law that the majority will shred the constitution and invest government bureaus with omnipotence. It is an iron law that the majority will put the people on the public payroll, give the people a national feeding trough, encourage the people to gorge themselves like swine, and cosset the people with welfare entitlements for life. It is an iron law that the majority will repeal the right to life, liberty and property and reduce the individual to a servant of the totality. It is an iron law that the majority will trade away freedom for security and justice for equality. It is an iron law that the majority will plunge society into a Dark Age ruled by the forces of chaos and bloodied by tribalism, dictatorship, bureaucracy, race wars, gender wars, panic in the streets, and the descent of civilization into a savage jungle. If and when an individual comes along and challenges the animal creed of the majority and the social, moral, political and economic devastation wrought by it, the majority will hate the challenger with a passion which knows no bounds and will expel the challenger from society. If the challenger happens to be a citizen of a nation once venerated as the freest nation in modern times and the policeman for freedom throughout the world, the feeling of hatred and the act of expulsion will enact a tragedy of world historical proportions. There are no exceptions to this iron law. It rules the weakest and strongest of nations and will fell a mighty tree of liberty which reaches up to the heavens. The cancer of collectivism which projects groups as mystical individuals and exalts them above flesh and blood individuals, the cancer born from the rejection of reason, has spread across America in the twenty first century and consumed its traditions and institutions which once were the envy of the free world. Capturing the hearts and minds of the majority, and traveling under the names of Marxism and its race and gender offshoots, this cancer has expelled an intruder within its midst who had the courage to confront it and sought to slay it. In America in the twenty first century, this cancer brought into the nation by the majority, this cancer voted into power in a landslide under a ticket stamped progressivism, has targeted the forty third president of the United States, who is running for office again, for destruction. See why the American people, the degenerate majority which runs the nation, hates Donald Trump, and read, in the career of one nation, the sorry end story and epitaph of the West. The people hate Donald Trump because he opposes open borders, mass, unvetted immigration, and the invasion of the nation by ten million illegal aliens, an invasion which commenced under the administration of Joe Biden. The people hate Donald Trump because he opposes the welcoming of Islamist terrorists into the nation in the name of multiculturalism. The people hate Donald Trump because he opposes the government's borrowing of five hundred million dollars, and the government's taxing citizens at stratospheric levels, to provide lifetime welfare benefits to illegal aliens. The people hate Donald Trump because he believes that illegal aliens should not be allowed to vote, to commit acts of violence with impunity, or to serve as police officers. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the government's policy of robbing Peter to pay for Paul's health care and subsidizing health care for the scum of the nation. The people hate Donald Trump because he recognizes the reality of genes, units of information within cells which determine gender and make gender fixed and immutable. The people hate Donald Trump because he recognizes that so-called transgender females are males and so-called transgender males are females. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the policy of encouraging psychotic children who imagine themselves to be members of the opposite sex to ingest hormone blockers, sexually mutilate themselves and become cross dressers. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the policy of allowing psychotic children and adults who imagine themselves to be members of the opposite sex to use facilities, such as showers and locker rooms, reserved for members of that sex, and to compete on sports teams with members of that sex. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the policy of schools, businesses and governments of refusing admissions or employment to people on the basis of their race and gender and discriminating against white males. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the transformation of universities into race Marxist, black power indoctrination camps which teach students that progressive political theory is called critical theory because it is critical of the Enlightenment doctrines of objective truth, empirical science, human essentialism and individual rights, and promotes in their place a neoHitlerite doctrine of black Aryanism and racism against whites. The people hate Donald Trump because he supports the United States Constitution's First Amendment guarantee of free speech and the protection of speech deemed politically incorrect and critical of gender, race and class ideologies. The people hate Donald Trump because he opposes the policy of printing stimulus payments by the billions, established under the Biden administration, which has led to worst across the board inflation in a half a century. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to massive price increases in electricity, gasoline and natural gas, justified by the Biden administration in the name of green energy and reducing greenhouse gas emissions. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the policy of jailing parents as domestic terrorists who protest at school board meetings against the indoctrination of their children in transgenderism. The people hate Donald Trump because he is opposed to the nation's thirty four trillion dollar debt, which increases by one trillion dollars every three months, amassed to finance socialist welfare programs. The people have targeted Donald Trump for destruction and expelled him from society. The people stole the presidential election of 2020 from Trump when the Federal Bureau of Investigation ordered Facebook to suppress the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop, contents which incontrovertibly proved the existence of a global influence peddling operation run by Joe Biden, on the spurious grounds that the contents were products of Russian disinformation. This official act of suppression prevented voters from knowing the truth about Biden, and through this suppression of vital information about Biden's character, it rigged the election in favor of him. The people jailed those who protested against the certification of Joe Biden as president by Congress on January 6, 2021. The protesters saw a political establishment which had refused to provide peaceful redress of grievances. They saw an establishment which had refused to acknowledge the manufacturing of millions of votes for Joe Biden attested by reams of video surveillance footage, mobile phone data and eyewitness testimony. They saw an establishment which had refused to hear lawsuits challenging unconstitutional state practices allowing executive officials to change election rules. The Constitution allows state legislatures and state legislatures alone to change election rules. They saw an establishment which had dismissed these challenges on grounds of lack of standing, despite the fact that free societies everywhere recognize a natural public interest standing possessed by any person or entity to sue to ensure that the government obeys the law. Confronted by the refusal of the establishment to provide peaceful redress of grievances, the protesters at the Capital Building were left with no other option but to attempt an insurrection and stop the wheels of the government. The people next framed Trump on false charges involving victimless crimes, and subjected him to arrest, prosecution, jail and confiscation of wealth through the imposition of an excessive, unconstitutional fine. The people deprived Trump of his right to life, liberty and property and his right to run and be elected president in a free and fair election. The people, through a governmental abuse of power and Soviet style targeting of Donald Trump and expulsion of Trump from society, lowered the curtain on the republic and constitution of the nation: "We have seen governmental violations of the First Amendment--from Soviet style whispers to Facebook to quash the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop by declaring falsely--knowingly so, it turned out--that the material in it supposedly had 'all the earmarks of a Russian disinformation campaign,' to calling true medical information false during the COVID-19 pandemic. The first maneuver was election interference--probably decisive in undermining the integrity of the 2020 election. Sadly, as of late, we have been witnessing even more governmental abuse of power, astronomically out of control, by individuals elected or appointed to safeguard our laws and our Constitution, but who have been disregarding them at best and upending them at worst, specifically in the treatment of individuals who supposedly walked through 'the people's house' on January 6, 2021. At present, we are seeing laws being contorted so that one person, former President Donald J. Trump, is being prosecuted for a supposed crime in which no estimates were misrepresented without a clause insisting that the other parties to the contract (here, sophisticated banks) verify the estimates for themselves. No one was defrauded. No one ever even complained of being defrauded or wronged. No one lost a dime. One bank even testified that as a client, Trump was a 'whale,' with whom it would like to do more business. Everyone in this kangaroo trial of alleged criminal fraud said that they had done colossally well from it. As Trump says, 'They're not after me. They're after you. I'm just standing in the way.' He may be right. Too many people are being deeply wronged. It is to be hoped that in a few months, for the sake of public confidence in free and fair elections, our Republic and our Constitution, that these injustices and others like them, will be set right." (Violations Of The Eighth Amendment Of The US Constitution by Lawrence Kadish). The story of America has ended in the twenty first century. It ended with marching legions arrayed against it, legions manned by the people themselves. An interloper named Donald Trump stood athwart the legions. But he was powerless before them and could not take down their standards of moral decay and disintegration. They prevailed against him and hurled him down into defeat.

REDS SHUT DOWN BRUSSELS

It is the capital of Belgium and the capital of the European Union. Its European Quarter hosts the European Commission, the European Parliament and the Council of the European Union. It is an alpha city, a global hub of finance, trade and culture, the recipient of the title European Capital of Culture, and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. It has been host to three iconic world's fairs, and has hosted the world famous Solvay Conferences on physics and chemistry for over a century, since their establishment in the city in 1911. It is the center of Western security as the headquarters of NATO. This city is called Brussels and its story tells the story of the West. Its successes tell of the successes of the West; its failures tell of the failures of the West; its degeneration tells of the degeneration of the West; and if it is shut down, the West itself will be shut down. On April 16, 2024, Brussels was shut down by an attack staged by the mayor of the Marxist administration in charge of one of the city's districts. It was staged by one Emir Kir, member of the Socialist Party and mayor of Sainte Josse ten Noode for the past eleven years. On this day, Mayor Kir did something which Marxists across Europe, America and the free world have been doing for decades. He did something which painted a signpost in the twenty first century pointing to the end of the road of the West, an ignominious collapse reached by popular demand, an act of treason committed by an establishment against its people's founding ideals. He shut down freedom of speech for the opponents of Marxism. He shut down freedom of speech in the capital of a nation and a European Union whose constitutions guarantee freedom of speech, and thereby shut down the city, the nation and the European Union. On April 16, 2024, Mayor Emir Kir shut down a meeting of the National Conservative Conference. Run by the Edmund Burke Foundation, this conference at all its venues has committed the crime of rejecting the prevailing orthodoxy of Marxist based gender, race and class politics. For this it has suffered the eternal wrath of the establishment. Look at the establishment's police truncheons beat down the voices of the antiMarxist opposition and see them drive the final nail into the coffin of the West. As they bloodied their victims, the truncheons pounded out a message to the world proclaiming Brussel's official rejection of the values of the Enlightenment. They proclaimed that demands for human freedom are threats to public safety and must be shut down. They proclaimed that a progressive society does not welcome protests for freedom within its midst. They proclaimed that a progressive society shuts down gatherings of politicians, intellectuals, journalists, students and civic leaders concerned about loss of freedom suffered in Marxist regimes. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a Soviet Union society which has criminalized all forms of dissent. They proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by Marxist thought police who have censored and suppressed the incontrovertible arguments in favor of freedom. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a cancel culture which has placed political correctness on center stage and turned out the lights and shuttered the gates on the voices of human rights: "Police attempted to shut down a right wing political conference in Brussels today attended by ex Home Secretary Suella Braverman and Nigel Farage. In chaotic scenes, officers entered the venue to serve a court order demanding the National Conservatism event cease on public safety grounds as Mr Farage was making a speech. The former UKIP leader reportedly told the audience: 'I understand the police are very keen to shut this down. Well, in that case they can do it while I'm still on stage.' Organizers were told to wrap up the conference following an intervention from the local mayor. Emir Kir, mayor of Brussels district Saint-Josse-ten-Noode, said: 'In Etterbeek, in Brussels City and in Saint-Josse, the far-right is not welcome.' But NatCon said it was 'legally challenging' the order as it said there were 'no grounds to shut down a gathering of politicians, intellectuals, journalists, students, civic leaders, and concerned citizens.' In a video on social media, Mr Farage said the Brussels authorities were behaving 'like the old Soviet Union'. Following her speech, Ms Braverman hit out at the 'Brussels thought police' and claimed it was proof right wingers are 'winning the arguments'. Ms Braverman used her speech to stick the boot into Rishi Sunak for being too weak to take Britain out of the European Court of Human Rights. She said: 'The current UK Government doesn't have the political will to take on the ECHR and hasn't laid the groundwork for doing so. And so it's no surprise that recent noises in this direction are easily dismissed as inauthentic.' The conference had already been forced into several venue changes after a string of hosts canceled due to pressure from local politicians. This led organizers to accuse the Brussels mayor Philippe Close of seeking to 'cancel' the event. Concerns were also raised over security issues due to protests, with the conference shuttering the main entrance of the venue so people couldn't get in." (Police Order Shut Down Of Right Wing NatCon Conference--During Nigel Farage's Speech by Sophie Huskisson and Lizzy Buchan). Look at Mayor Kir's police truncheons and see them pound a message into their victims from which civilized people have reeled back in horror. They proclaimed that a progressive society shuts down people who reject Marxist influence in the European Union. They proclaimed that a progressive society shuts down people opposed to mass migration of Islamist terrorists justified in the name of multiculturalism. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a communist society which shuts down people who disagree with the state religion. They proclaimed that a progressive society shuts down anticommunist protesters in the name of ensuring public safety. They proclaimed that a progressive society does not tolerate freedom speech for those who voice politically incorrect opinions. They proclaimed that a progressive society shuts down peaceful assemblies staged by anticommunists. They proclaimed that a progressive society is an unconstitutional society which allows political meetings of communists to take place and political meetings of nobody else. They proclaimed that a progressive society breaks up meetings of libertarians and conservatives and hauls the participants off to jail. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a gathering of Red Guards which forces movements for freedom to shift their locations repeatedly until they shift them off the Earth and into the void of civil nonexistence: "Keynote speakers at the National Conservatism conference included the eurosceptic populist Nigel Farage and Britain's former interior minister Suella Braverman, with Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orban scheduled to address the two day gathering on Wednesday. Farage's speech went ahead amid swirling rumors the event was about to be shut down, followed by Braverman, who took the stage despite police entering the venue to notify organizers of a ban. France's far right former presidential candidate Eric Zemmour was later barred by police from entering the venue to deliver an address on migration. 'I think it's absolutely monstrous,' Farage told reporters after wrapping up his address. 'This is the complete old communist style where if you don't agree with me, you've got to be banned, you've got to be shut down, said the Brexit figurehead. Emir Kir, mayor of the Brussels district of Saint-Josse where the venue is located, said on Facebook he issued a ban in order to 'ensure public security'--with protesters vowing to target the venue. He said the far right--which is predicted to surge in EU-wide elections taking place in June--was 'not welcome' in the city. But Belgium's Prime Minister Alexander De Croo slammed the move as 'unacceptable' and said the Belgian constitution guaranteed freedom of speech. 'Banning political meetings is unconstitutional. Full stop,' the liberal leader wrote on X. 'What happened at the Claridge today is unacceptable. Municipal autonomy is a cornerstone of our democracy but can never overrule the Belgian constitution guaranteeing the freedom of speech and peaceful assembly since 1830. Banning political meetings is unconstitutional. Full stop.' A spokesperson for Britain's Prime Minister Rishi Sunak called the decision 'extremely disturbing'. Despite the order, the conference limped on through Tuesday afternoon with police refraining from forcing out the participants, but also blocking new attendees from entering. Organizers said they were challenging the mayor's decision in court and it remained unclear if the gathering would be forced to shift location for its second day or be held at all. Orbán--who will also be attending a two day summit of EU leaders in Brussels starting Wednesday--vowed 'we will not give up' as he railed against the authorities in the Belgian capital. 'I guess they couldn't take free speech any longer,' he wrote on X. 'The Belgian police decided to shut down the NatCon conference in Brussels, just two hours after it started. I guess they couldn't take free speech any longer. The last time they wanted to silence me with the police was when the communists set them on me in 1988.' " (Political Storm Erupts After Police Told To Shut Down Hard Right NatCon Event In Brussels, in France 24, April 16, 2024). On April 16, 2024, Mayor Emir Kir's police went to the Concert Noble at 84 Arlon Street in Brussels, and surrounded, entered and broke up a conference of freedom fighters being held there. They placed a barbed wire fence around freedom of thought and extinguished the flame of constitutional rights which had burned brightly in Europe for a thousand years. Ringing the venue of the National Conservatism Conference, they took every citizen in Europe a prisoner of conscience and composed the sorry epitaph of the birthplace of humanity.

NATIONAL CONSERVATISM EQUALS NATIONAL SOCIALISM

A monopoly is a market with the absence of competition. It is a situation in which there is a single supplier of something. It is established by law and gives the supplier the power to exclude entry by competitors. Examples of monopolies include patents, trademarks, copyrights and state owned services such as utilities, post offices and public transit. Civilized people studying the present day political landscape of the West have thought they have observed a monopoly and have reeled back in horror at what they think they have observed. They thought they observed a monopoly on totalitarian tyranny wielded by the proponents of Marxist gender, race and class politics. Mutated from Marx's original movement of proletarian class war commenced in the nineteenth century, this triple headed monster marked gender, race and class is indeed in control of the educational establishment of the West. It occupies every classroom, laboratory, institute and faculty hall in the free world and has transformed primary schools, secondary schools and universities into indoctrination camps and echo chambers fueling the maximum speed propagation of slogans telling students that flesh and blood individuals do not exist as primary realities, and primary realities are mystical, supernatural gender, race and class formations. They tell students that people must not be judged as individuals but be judged on the basis of their gender, race and class identities or intersections of identities, and that the particular intersection marked successful, white, antiMarxist, cisgender males of European descent is comprised of oppressors and exploiters of the salt of the Earth, the particular intersection marked Marxist women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor, and this oppressor and exploiter class must be exterminated. The triple headed Marxist monster of gender, race and class politics is as well in control of Western governments, Western social media platforms and the channels of mass communications, and sits at the dinner table in the vast majority of Western families and homes. But civilized people were mistaken in their initial assesement of a monopoly in the hands of Marxists. The mistake was easy to make, but being honest, fact centered people, they have corrected the error of their ways. They have now seen in operation another movement, a movement rising and spreading across the West, a movement whose legions are on the march. It has not at present achieved the power of the Marxists, but it has become strong enough to challenge them in a serious way for the hearts and minds of the masses. Because it appeals to the masses, it cannot be a freedom movement but is one more totalitarian tyranny, one more religion of collectivism, and it fights the Marxists today as Hitler's brownshirts fought the redshirts for control over Germany a century ago. As in Weimar Germany, so in the present day, the battle lines have been drawn by two competing populist movements. In Weimar Germany, the populist communists fought the populist national socialists. Their heirs and successors confront each other today. The heirs and successors of the communists is the populist movement advocating collectivism in the name of gender, race and class, and has taken away freedom in the name of Marxist women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor. The heirs and successors of the national socialists is a populist movement called national conservatism, which advocates collectivism in the name of nationalism. Seeking to take away freedom in the name of the nation, it is one more variant of Marxism but invokes preMarxist doctrines as official justifications of its religion. It employs the doctrines of Edmund Burke. A philosopher and statesman who lived during the Age of Enlightenment, Burke declared war on the glorious ethos of his day. He declared war on the rule of reason, science, individual freedom and social progress, and sought to place the nation, state, society and the family upon the throne of power. Condemning the French Revolution for its world communist impulsions, Burke advocated the sacrifice of freedom on the altar of national identity, language, history, ethnicity, culture and territory. Combining Hitler and Burke into a witches' brew of collectivism new and old, the national conservative movement is making progress, becoming successful and making itself heard in families, homes, schools and offices throughout the West. Listen to its creed. It proclaims that the nation is paramount over the individual and has the right to control the individual's life and career. It proclaims that a law based liberal order must be replaced by a lawless nationalist regime. It proclaims that proper conservatism conserves the institutions of nationalism and not the institutions of freedom, and conservatives who seek to conserve freedom and not nationalism have created a crisis in the movement and must be expelled from it. It proclaims that the freedom and independence of the nation take precedence over the freedom and independence of the individual. It proclaims that the idea of the nation takes precedence over the idea of the individual. It proclaims that people must be bound together by the traditions of national service and not by the common cause of individual rights. It proclaims that nationalism is essential to leading the good life and flourishing in a proper human manner. It proclaims that a libertarian society, which recognizes the primacy of the individual and the existence of individual rights, is based on falsehood because the primary reality is the nation and not the individual. It proclaims that the world of perception is an illusion; the individual is only a secondary reality and shadowy phenomenon; and he has a duty to offer himself up in sacrifice to the nation. It proclaims that the highest age of mankind is the present age of nationalism, which has rejected the false Enlightenment emphasis on reason and worships at the altars of a premodern, preEnlightenment faith in the nation. It proclaims that this ancient faith must sweep away the chains of freedom forged during the Enlightenment and must form the basis of political theory, public policy and economics. It proclaims that this ancient faith will liberate mankind from the chains of freedom and reconstruct and revitalize society as a temple to human regimentation and enslavement in the name of the nation: "Politics in America, Britain, and other Western nations have taken a sharp turn toward nationalism—a commitment to a world of independent nations. This has been disorienting to many, not least the American conservative movement, which has, since the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, grown increasingly attached to a vision of a global 'rules based liberal order' that would bring peace and prosperity to the entire world while attenuating the independence of nations. The return of nationalism has created a much discussed 'crisis of conservatism' that may be unprecedented since modern Anglo-American conservatism was formulated by Russell Kirk, William Buckley, and their colleagues in the 1950s. At the heart of this crisis is a question: Is the new American and British nationalism a hostile usurper that has arrived on the scene to displace political conservatism? Or is nationalism an essential, if neglected, part of the Anglo-American conservative tradition at its best? National Conservatism is a movement of public figures, journalists, scholars, and students who understand that the past and future of conservatism are inextricably tied to the idea of the nation, to the principle of national independence, and to the revival of the unique national traditions that alone have the power to bind a people together and bring about their flourishing. We envision a protracted effort to recover and reconsolidate the rich tradition of national conservative thought as an intellectually serious alternative to the excesses of purist libertarianism, and in stark opposition to political theories grounded in race. Our aim is to solidify and energize national conservatives, offering them a much needed institutional base, substantial ideas in the areas of public policy, political theory, and economics, and an extensive support network across the country. National conservatism is a project of the Edmund Burke Foundation, a new public affairs institute dedicated to developing a revitalized conservatism for the age of nationalism already upon us." (Overview, nationalconservatism.org). Listen again to the creed of national conservatism. It proclaims that national traditions take precedence over individual rights. It proclaims that national sovereignty takes precedence over individual sovereignty. It proclaims that nations are mystical beings and alone possess rights. It proclaims that the greatest cause uniting mankind is the cause of the nation. It proclaims that the European Union, as an antinationalist institution, must be abolished. It proclaims that the ideal society is a National Conservatism Conference which has abolished individual rights, shredded liberal constitutions, and planted the banners of national chauvinism, jingoism, ethnocentrism and separatism upon the graveyard of civilization: "NatCon brings together public figures, journalists, scholars, and students who understand that the past and future of conservatism are inextricably tied to the idea of the nation, to the principle of national independence, and to the revival of the unique national traditions that alone have the power to bind a people together and bring about their flourishing. The challenges to national sovereignty posed by the EU's drive towards ever closer union create a unique opportunity for political conservatism to present an alternative vision for Europe. The upcoming EU parliamentary elections add urgency to the task of articulating the priorities of the voters and demonstrating the relevance of conservative ideals for the future of the nations of Europe. The National Conservatism Conference is a project of the Edmund Burke Foundation, a public affairs institute founded in January 2019 with the aim of strengthening the principles of national conservatism in Western and other democratic countries." In the twenty first century, history has returned to the recent past and repeated itself. In the twenty first century, the West is dominated by the resurrected ghosts of Weimar Germany. They have changed their names and colors but not their form and essence. Marxist collectivism in the name of gender, race and class battles neoHitlerite collectivism in the name of the nation. The first dispenses poison to destroy freedom, while the second dispenses poison to destroy freedom and calls it the antidote to the first. These brother legions have converged on civilization and composed the epitaph of humanity.

JOE BIDEN ATTACKS ISRAEL

Appreciate America. Red for courage. White for honor. Blue for justice. Stop the fifth column! An American World War II poster denouncing fifth columnists. SMASH COMMUNISM'S FIFTH COLUMN WITH A YES VOTE ON SEPTEMBER 22. A poster promoting an Australian referendum on September 22, 1951 asking voters to give the government the power to enact laws criminalizing communism. Fifth column: a person or group of people undermining society from within, acting on behalf of a foreign power. Fifth columnists have been a scourge on civilization for millennia, sabotaging free societies by their brazen acts of treachery. When the member of a fifth column operates in the highest ruling circles of a society and allows in the external enemy from his office, and when that society has for a century served as the world's arsenal of freedom and freedom's shining city on a hill lighting up the skies, the act of treachery becomes an evil of world historical proportions and signals the victory of a moral cancer spreading across civilization. Feeding on mob rule and mass mental exhaustion, this cancer is called Marxism. It commenced its career in the early years of the twentieth century, riding into power in a landslide under a ticket stamped progressivism, and in the twenty first century, it has overrun the West. From an act of treachery which will live forever as the blackest entry in the annals of infamy, this cancer has planted its flag of victory in the office of the president of the United States. It planted its flag with the hands of the nation's forty fourth president and present occupant. Civilized people would have found this spectacle of high treason inconceivable and unimaginable if confronted with its possibility as recently as a decade ago. But over the past decade, they have seen the terrifying reality of civilizational collapse unfold. They have seen America advance inexorably into a Marxist monster's maw of gender, race and class politics, and seen the monster advance into the nation's capital. In 2020, they saw this monster elected president of the United States. They are fazed by America's suicide with a gun marked populism; they are disturbed and disconcerted by the majority's vote to abolish freedom in a nation which once protected freedom throughout the world; but they no longer are surprised or incredulous at the spectacle. They know that Rome had its caesars and America has its Joe Biden. The agents of decay, disintegration and dissolution which can fell the mightiest tree of liberty, soaring into the heavens, if supported by the majority. The cancer of Marxism has made common cause with a movement from the East which also hates freedom. It has joined forces with Islam. Just as Hitler's Third Reich joined forces with Islam in its war against freedom eighty years ago, and the Soviet Union joined forces with Arab states in its war against freedom during the Cold War, today's Marxists have forged alliances with mullahs, allowed mass Muslim migration to terrorize homes and neighborhoods, and built mosques of hatred and bigotry across the land in their war against freedom. The global movement of Marxism in alliance with Islam has succeeded in installing a fifth columnist in America's Oval Office. Look at his treachery and see the sorry end story and epitaph of America. Joe Biden sanctioned Iran's drone attack on Israel, an attack on the only free society in the Middle East and a staunch ally of the West. He plunged a knife into the back of freedom's friends and allies throughout the world. He gives aid and comfort to an axis of authoritarian regimes in the East dedicated to the imposition of Islamist theocracies. He exalts a nation which violates international laws and norms, threatens world peace and security, exports terror to the rogue actors of the world, shouts "death to America" and is determined to destroy the West at all costs, and exalts it as a rational, decent, civilized society. He supported the Iran Nuclear Deal which awarded billions of taxpayer dollars to Iran's mullahs, the preeminent perpetrators of terror in the world, so they could expand uranium enrichment and build nuclear weapons. He released billions of dollars in frozen Iranian assets under the pretext of effecting a prisoner exchange, billions which funded the Hamas terror attacks on Israel on October 7. Answering to his Marxist-Muslim base of support in America, he betrayed the trust of Israel and refused to give it military intelligence on Iran's war plans, destroyed

America's credibility throughout the world, and launched a missile strike against the historical idea of America, an idea born in the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment: "An anonymous Turkish diplomat told Reuters this week that Turkey played the role of a back channel intermediary between the United States and Iran in the run up to the Iranian missile strike in Israel. According to the source, Tehran informed Turkey of its plans for the strike in advance in an effort to limit the potential for further escalation. In response, the US allegedly conveyed to Tehran through Ankara that any action would have to be 'within certain limits.' The White House has denied the claim. But if the report is accurate, and, in particular, if President Joe Biden greenlit a strike against a key American ally, he must be compelled to resign the presidency immediately. Such an act represents a stunning betrayal that has the potential to erode trust among allies around the globe. Given the swift rise of the authoritarian axis in the East in recent years, coupled with America's waning global influence, a scandal of this magnitude must not be tolerated. While the alleged approval for the strike is disorienting for a number of reasons, it fits within Biden's overall stance toward Tehran, which is largely indistinguishable from that of former President Barack Obama. In the Obama-Biden view, Iran is not a rogue nation bent on the destruction of the West—the frequent 'death to America' chants by lawmakers and citizens notwithstanding—but a rational international actor that can be reasoned with and bought off at the right price. The Obama administration's Iran Nuclear Deal, in which the US lavished billions of taxpayer dollars upon the Iranian mullahs in exchange for a toothless and temporary agreement, has effectively destabilized the region. The Trump administration wisely pulled out of the deal in 2018 due to numerous deficiencies, including poor inspection standards—for instance, the Iranians made their military sites 'off limits' to inspection by the International Atomic Energy Agency—and sunset provisions that allowed Iran to expand uranium enrichment as early as 2030. Biden has made every attempt to reenter the deal, but he has ultimately failed due to Tehran's intransigence. This hasn't stopped the president from courting Tehran in other ways, however. Last September, Biden offered Iran a bouquet of billions in frozen assets as part of a prisoner exchange. One month later, Iran unleashed the October 7 terrorist assault on Israel through its proxy Hamas. It is beyond question that the funds from the prisoner swap freed up other funds for the attack, despite Team Biden's lame defense of the debacle. In the context of his overall stance toward Tehran, it makes sense that Biden would attempt to appease an Iranian regime under intense domestic pressure to hit back following Israel's killing of Iranian General Mohammad Reza Zahedi in early April. If the Reuters report bears out, Biden's decision to play both sides of the fence by greenlighting a attack it presumed Israel would thwart with American and British help could be spun as a successful effort to provide an off ramp for both sides. But this would only hold if Israel was aware of the process as it unfolded. If not, the breach of trust would only cause Israel to become more aggressive in its own defense. The scale of Israel's response to this weekend's missile strike will be telling in this regard. The idiocy makes one wince, but there is an unmistakable consistency to Biden's Iran approach. And it reveals the fact that he apparently values his relationship with the world's foremost funder of terrorism as much as his relationship with the only democracy in the Middle East and one of America's most important allies. If he greenlit the strike, or if he had any prior knowledge and failed to share it with Israel, he will have done meaningful and lasting damage to American credibility among allies when America can afford it least. If done with Dearborn, Michigan, in mind, then it's all the worse." (Biden Must Resign If He Greenlit Iran's Strike On Israel by Peter Laffin). Joe Biden is the world's preeminent bankroller of terror. He provides American government funding to a family of evil the likes of which the world has never seen before. He subsidizes the Satans of the world, marching under the flag of the Star and Crescent, in their operations of conceiving, designing, planning and carrying out acts of terror. Raiding America's treasury and bleeding the nation white, he lavishes billions of dollars on the fathers, sons, grandsons and cousins of terror, and has set Iran and its attack dogs, Hezbollah, Hamas and the Houthis, against a Western fortress and citadel called Israel: "Iran's drone attack was funded by Joe Biden. Everyone on planet Earth knows it. And there is nowhere to hide for the beach going shuffler in chief. The bottom line of this is—we are all in deep trouble. Factual reminders you only heard on Fox News and NewsMax: Under Donald Trump Iran was broke and would have never been in a position to launch the scale of attack they did last night—much less coordinate and execute the attack of October 7. People who are pretending to be journalists might look shocked but the Hamas attack of 10/7 was completely designed, strategized, and executed by Iran. Iran loves using its Arab cousins to die in attacks against 'the Satans' because it means fewer Iranians die. So they pour money into Hezbollah, Hamas, and the Houthis but where does it come from? Joe Biden." (The Biden Drone Attack On Israel by Kevin McCoulough). One thousand years ago, the birthplace of freedom in the West defined treason. The Treason Act of 1351 states that a person is guilty of treason if he "levies war against the king in his realm, or adheres to the king's enemies in his realm, giving them aid and comfort in his realm or elsewhere." The oldest treason statute in the West and still in force in Britain, its words describe the doom of America in the present day. Levying war against freedom, providing aid and comfort to the enemies of freedom and marching American freedom up to the gallows: in the court of civilized people, by unanimous consent, Joe Biden has been found guilty and America has been condemned forever.

RELIGION IN CHARGE

One thousand years after the Christian Dark Age reigned as the first age of the West, five hundred years after the Renaissance marked the start of the West's journey out of the darkness, and three hundred years after the Scientific Revolution and the Age of Enlightenment completed the journey and propelled the West into heights of glory and achievement, history has traveled full circle, it has repeated itself, and religion has returned to power. In the twentieth century, the West entered into a second age of religiousness, and the new millennium has brought the consolidation of this age and brought the West to the physical and temporal end of the line. Grown weary and exhausted from the demands of reason and science, the West has returned to the easy embrace of religion and betrayed the institutions which make human flourishing possible, institutions which sent human knowledge and enlightenment, for the first time in history, coursing into the four corners of the world. In the twenty first century, Western reason and science are everywhere and nowhere, having lost their philosophical basis and support. They exist like a mighty tree spread out across the landscape and soaring into the heavens, but a tree whose roots and sap have died and dried up. The tree exists but is bereft of life and is a gigantic skeleton whose shadow looms over the graveyard of civilization. The desecularization of the West has brought forth the desecularization of the world, since the West is spread across the world, and has brought forth a resurgent Christianity, Islam, Judaism and Hinduism. These old time religions have been joined by a religion indigenous to the West. It was invented in Europe in the nineteenth century in the roiling, feverish, discontented, hate filled imagination of one Karl Marx. He set forth the tenets of his religion in the one nation in Europe which granted him freedom of religion. Ensnared in the Reading Room of the British Museum, Marx invented a god he called the proletariat and through this god he sought to foment a class war staged by the class of the envious and the have nots, subvert the institutions of freedom, and enslave mankind. Marxism produced offshoots which logically arose from the parent belief, and to the master's original class war were joined race war and gender war, and in the mid twentieth century, a triple headed monster was born, called gender, race and class politics. The gorgon of class politics produced a radical environmentalist green movement which called for the dismantling of industry and technology in the name of reducing global greenhouse gas emissions. The gorgon of gender politics produced a transgenderist movement which denied the existence of empirically established sex chromosomes and proclaimed that gender is changeable by human action.

Cristianity, Islam, Judaism, Hinduism, class Marxism, race Marxism and gender Marxism are today's horsemen of the apocalypse. Look at their rampage and see civilization reduced to a moral and spiritual wasteland. Marxism and its offshoots proclaim that a progressive university has rejected the quest for knowledge and become an indoctrination camp and echo chamber dedicated to the high speed propagation of race studies, gender studies, queer studies and fat studies. They proclaim that physical objects, properties and laws do not exist and the traditional scientific method of empiricism is invalid. They proclaim that the belief in the existence of the physical world and the validity of empiricism are products of an ideology of domination in the hands of white bourgeois males. They proclaim that reality is a projection of the feminist will to power, the black will to power and the proletarian will to power. They proclaim that reality is a social, linguistic, political and ideological construct. They proclaim that reality is a product of the structures of the human mind and is determined by human choice. They proclaim that the ideas of reason and science championed by the Enlightenment must be replaced by the postenlightenment creed of mysticism, apriorism, subjectivism, and gender, race and class navel gazing: "Over the past twelve months, three scholars—James Lindsay, Helen Pluckrose, and Peter Boghossian—wrote twenty fake papers using fashionable jargon to argue for ridiculous conclusions, and tried to get them placed in high profile journals in fields including gender studies, queer studies, and fat studies. Their success rate was remarkable: By the time they took their experiment public late on Tuesday, seven of their articles had been accepted for publication by ostensibly serious peer reviewed journals. Seven more were still going through various stages of the review process. Only six had been rejected. We've been here before. In the late 1990s, Alan Sokal, a professor of physics at New York University, began a soon to be infamous article by setting out some of his core beliefs: 'that there exists an external world, whose properties are independent of any individual human being and indeed of humanity as a whole; that these properties are encoded in eternal physical laws; and that human beings can obtain reliable, albeit imperfect and tentative, knowledge of these laws by hewing to the objective procedures and epistemological strictures prescribed by the scientific method.' Sokal went on to 'disprove' his credo in fashionable jargon. 'Feminist and poststructuralist critiques have demystified the substantive content of mainstream Western scientific practice, revealing the ideology of domination concealed behind the facade of objectivity,' he claimed. 'It has thus become increasingly apparent that physical reality, no less than social reality, is at bottom a social and linguistic construct.' Next, Sokal sent off this jabber to Social Text, an academic journal that was, at the time, a leading intellectual forum for famous scholars including Edward Said, Oskar Negt, Nancy Fraser, Etienne Balibar, and Jacques Ranciere. It was published." (What An Audacious Hoax Reveals About Academia by Yasha Mounk). Look at Marxism and its offshoots proclaim that black women are a privileged class whose members must be appointed presidents of universities because they are black women and must be allowed to commit acts of plagiarism with impunity, acts which would get a student expelled from campus, because they are black women. They proclaim that a progressive university has abolished grades for students on the grounds that too many white male students are intelligent and hard working and receive high grades, and there are insufficient numbers of black students who are intelligent, hard working and deserving of high grades. They proclaim that those who condemn a regime of discrimination in favor blacks and women, and champion a gender blind and color blind society, are right wing bigots and must be canceled. They proclaim that black women form a master race whose members must not be held accountable for anything they do. They proclaim that black women are innocent of everything and guilty of nothing. They proclaim that people who condemn the prevailing orthodoxy of gender, race and class politics must be fired, expelled, disinvited, demoted, censored, tarred and feathered, drawn and quartered, and drummed out of the universe. They proclaim that a progressive society is a perpetual motion outrage machine fueled by explosions of hate from the devil's sun. They proclaim that a progressive society has arrested the voices of freedom and taken them prisoners of conscience. They proclaim that a progressive society has abolished individual rights and established a regime of thought control in which people are jailed for holding beliefs deemed politically incorrect, and reason has been swept away by the underworld gods of fear and control: "Claudine Gay resigned as the president of Harvard University in January over charges of plagiarism. The university assured her she would remain employed for a salary of around $900,000 a year as an administrator. This week, Harvard announced Gay would assume the role of teaching a graduate level Reading and Research course at Harvard. Yes, you read that correctly. A woman outed for serial plagiarism—or 'inadequate citations,' the phrase that the school used to euphemize her misdeeds--will preside over a research course that emphasizes proper attribution. How this is real life and not a skit on SNL or a headline from the Babylon Bee is amusing. Harvard says the course does not provide letter grades. Letter grades uphold a grading system that disproportionately favors white students, several Harvard administrators argue. Grades are racist. The school adds that the course requires 'written work of sufficient quantity and quality so that the course is equivalent to a lecture course or a seminar.' Got it. Future employers can rest assured that students who pass the course will be well equipped to publish adequately cited work after learning from Dr Gay. The watchdog website College Fix asked Harvard if Gay plans to address the plagiarism allegations in her course. The university did not provide a comment. Of course, it didn't. In January, kooks like Al Sharpton and Jemele Hill portrayed Claudine Gay as a victim of a right wing smear campaign to bring down an innocent black woman. They called her a victim of cancel culture. 'The anticancel culture folks are predictably quiet about what's happened to Claudine Gay. Of course,' tweeted Boston Globe columnist Renee Graham. Those claims are dishonest. Willfully dishonest, that is. Conservatives did not target Gay because she's a black woman. The right reported on Gay's wrongdoings after learning she is a serial plagiarist and, unlike former Penn president Liz Magill, held on to her job after a cringe congressional testimony. As we argued at the time, there's a stark contrast between cancel culture and accountability. Cancel culture is when someone is fired, demoted or suppressed over an opinion of which the outrage machine disapproves. Cancel culture convicts thought crimes. There's a difference between losing your job over your speech and losing your job over your decision to violate company policy. Claudine Gay lost a job for violating Harvard's ethics policy." (Serial Plagiarist Claudine Gay To Teach Reading And Research Ethics Class At Harvard by Bobby Burack). A resurgent Christianity which has installed the Conference of Catholic Bishops on the United States Supreme Court. This new court of disgrace has breached the wall of separation between church and state constructed by the First Amendment to the Constitution and ruled, in Dobbs vs Jackson Women's Health Organization, that states have the right to declare that a one cell zygote, formed from the union of a one cell male gamete and a one cell female gamete, is an actual human person by virtue of the infusion of a supernatural soul. A resurgent Islam which has spread a veil of totalitarian tyranny across Arab nations and established a network of global terror. A resurgent Orthodox Judaism in Israel which has undermined the nation's liberal society, started a culture war against secularism, and established totalitarian zionist settlements in the West Bank. A resurgent Hinduism in India which has shredded the nation's Constitution guaranteeing equality to all, replaced liberal jurisprudence with religious statecraft, and elevated Hindu nationalists to the status of a master race. An ascendant Marxist movement in control of government and academia, trampling over individual rights, one hundred years of genetic science, and modern industrial and technological progress with the bulldozers of gender, race and class politics. Thundering over the horizon in the twenty first century, the horsemen of the apocalypse have rained down the pestilence of irrationalism upon mankind.

AMERICA'S REDS BANKRUPT NATION

Decadence. The word originated in Latin as decadentia in the ten century AD. It entered the French language in the sixteenth century, and entered English in the seventeenth. Decadence. A state of decay, decrease, decline and degeneration of a civilization brought about by the rejection of reason and freedom and the descent into communism. It has been the sorry fate of civilizations throughout history. Two thousand years ago, Chinese Emperor Tsu Tong Phao led his civilization into its doom by condemning private property as the "monopoly of capital", taking away private profit through confiscatory taxes, controlling prices to curry favor with the masses, giving state subsidies to farmers, and engaging in deficit financing to support welfare benefits. Two thousand years ago, Rome's emperors confiscated private gold, debased the currency, closed the banks, rendered the Senate null and void, shredded the Constitution, concentrated power into the hands of administrative officials, oppressed farmers by bureaucratic red tape, confiscated their land through excessive taxation, froze prices, stopped profits, put the masses on public payrolls, expanded public grain doles, and established a national feeding trough on the which the public could gorge itself like swine. In the twentieth century, decadence came to America and won power in a landslide under a ticket stamped progressivism. The ticket was a deception, for the new movement was the antithesis of progress, and led the nation into the doom of the primitive swampland and the savage jungle. As the masses did in decadent China and as they did in decadent Rome, the decadent American masses in the twentieth century made a series of social demands. They demanded that the state give them security in place of freedom and equality in place of justice. They demanded that the state give them an education. They demanded that the state take care of them when they became ill. They demanded that the state take care of them when they became old. They demanded that the state take care of them if they lost their jobs. They demanded that the state give them a maximum amount of money for doing a minimum amount of work or for doing no work at all. They demanded that the state support them from cradle to grave and relieve them of the responsibility of leading adult, rational, responsible, human lives. The masses' demands were met, and thus was born a welfare state without precedent in the nation's history. It was called a New Deal, but it was in point of fact an old deal. It was a deal as old as civilization itself, and a deal concluded at the end stage and death point of civilization. The ancient Chinese made this deal and the ancient Romans made this deal, and in the twentieth century, the Americans made this deal. It is the deal to sell one's soul, one's moral character, one's natural, intrinsic human rights, to the state in exchange for acquiring one's neighbor's wealth and lifetime security provided by the state. One hundred years after this deal was made, the American welfare state, the shame of a nation conceived in the womb of the Enlightenment on the battlefields of Lexington and Concord, has reached the end of the line. In the twenty first century, it looms across the nation like a massive skeletal form, and its massive dead weight, bereft of human life, has crushed freedom for all time to come. Look at the end of the line, look at the skeletal form, look at the massive weight, look at the tyranny of the majority, look at a regime of democratically imposed communism, look at the shadow of a nation once revered as the leader of the free world, and see the results of a political deal made in the depths of mass disorder and mental derangement. See innumerable, unimaginable, inconceivable sums of money spent on welfare support for the scum of society. See a welfare state bankrupt to the tune of hundreds of trillions of dollars. See national welfare spending exceed the monetary worth of all the nations on Earth combined, and exceed the amount spent by the federal government in two centuries prior to the present day. See communism placed in a bright red package marked Medicare and Social Security. See a national government paralyzed by the masses and unable to reduce welfare spending and move into sanity. See unfunded welfare liabilities soar through infinite space and leave fiscal responsibility light years behind. See a nation intoxicated on communism, state worship and out of control welfare spending and unable to see the reality of free born people possessed of inalienable rights. See the amount of money spent on welfare programs, owed to welfare programs, allocated to welfare programs, borrowed for welfare programs and printed for welfare programs comprise the most infamous and scandalous numbers the world has ever seen, and a series of earthquake magnitudes which have razed the nation's constitution, commitment to law and cities of freedom to the ground. See a nation ruled by consumers and welfare beneficiaries who have placed the producing class which subsidizes them into chains. See a nation locked into ever increasing borrowing and ever increasing taxation to finance ever increasing welfare consumption by a class of professional parasites. See the notions of individual freedom, worth, dignity and responsibility become politically toxic and sacrificed on the altar of social justice, service to the totality and the reduction of the individual to his brother's keeper. See the state rob ambitious and hardworking Peter to pay shiftless and good for nothing Paul for his wheelchairs, prescription drugs, doctor's visits and private hospital beds. See welfare payouts dwarf tax revenues and necessitate massive state borrowing and state printing of money, burying the nation in unpayable debt and inflated currency. See a nation squander its wealth, its resources, its manpower, its factories and offices, and its gross domestic product to feed the insatiable monster maw of a welfare state assembled and brought to life by the currents of mob rule: "$175,300,000,000,000 is the most important financial number in the world. The new Financial Report of the United States Government (February 2024) estimates that the financial position of Social Security and Medicare are underfunded by that much. Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen signed the report. The amount is unfathomable. Here are two examples for context: 1. The gross domestic product of every country on planet Earth was only $104.5 trillion last year. 2. $175.3 trillion is nearly as much as our federal government has spent on everything since the Constitution was written in 1787, even adjusted for inflation. Federal government has been paralyzed. The last reform worthy of the name was forty one years ago next month. So, Medicare is forecast to start cutting benefits in just seven years. Social Security's trust funds start running out of money in ten years. The funds are projected for depletion by 2041. In 2013, then US Senator, the late Dr Tom Coburn, warned that Congress was 'drunk on spending'. Coburn highlighted the federal unfunded liabilities, which then were $128 trillion. Today, just ten years later, the financial picture is considerably worse—up nearly $50 trillion, or 39 percent! Because of the size of the deficit, there is no clear path towards obtaining the funding needed. that means radical changes could be coming to two of the nation's most fundamental services. The Treasury estimates that the US will spend $215.7 trillion in the next 75 years to give Social Security and Medicare payouts to beneficiaries. In that period, collections—mostly through payroll taxes—are estimated at only $137.4 trillion. The $78.3 trillion funding gap? According to the Yellen Report, it can only be generated through increased borrowing, higher taxes, reduced benefits, or some combination of these. All options are politically toxic, which is why Congress is hiding, hoping the problem will go away. And why no one in Washington DC wants to talk about the Yellen Report. For example, more than half of the unfunded liability comes from Part B of Medicare, which covers 'basic healthcare services' like doctor's visits and equipment such as wheelchairs. It gets worse: the Yellen Report honestly tells us that the 75 year projection underestimates just how much extra cash is needed because that period does not include the years when most Social Security and Medicare dollars will be paid out. Think about it. A child born today will pay massive taxes into Medicare and Social Security over the next 75 years. But the government will not have to send that person benefit checks until they are 62 years old, meaning the majority of payouts will occur more than 75 years from now. Since this 'infinite horizon' model covers an individual's entire life, this model exposes even more funding gaps. The Treasury estimates that current participants will use $105.4 trillion more from Medicare and Social Security than those same people pay into the programs through taxes. Future participants, who are now younger than fifteen or even still in the womb, will use $69.9 trillion more than they contribute. Combined, that is an absurd $175.3 trillion gap that Congress has been ignoring. Here are how the unfunded liabilities break out by program: 1. Medicare Part A, which covers hospital visits, is projected to have $15.1 trillion more than it needs. 2. Medicare Part B is the largest liability with an unfunded $99.5 trillion. 3. Medicare Part D, for prescription drugs, will be missing $22.1 trillion. 4. Social Security needs an additional $68.8 trillion." (The $175.3 Trillion Doomsday Clock Is Ticking—That Is The Estimated Unfunded Social Security And Medicare Liability by Adam Andrzejewski). Bankruptcy is the state of a person or organization declared unable to pay their debts. The term originated in Renaissance Italy and is derived from the phrase banca rotta, meaning "broken bench." This referred to the practice of smashing a banker's bench if he defaulted on payment. America's welfare state debts are long overdue. These are moral, spiritual, political and financial debts and they have smashed the body and soul of the nation beyond repair.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF TREASON

Treason is the crime of betraying a nation and endangering its security. It is the crime of waging war against a society and giving aid and comfort to its enemies. Since freedom first trod upon the face of the Earth, there have been traitors within its midst who have sought to lock it into chains. Freedom locked into chains is the unholy mission of the traitor, and lashed onward by the demons of envy, hatred, discontent and insecurity, he has sought indefatigably to subvert the traditions and institutions of the free world in which he was raised. Free societies throughout history have been plagued by traitors, and depending upon the strength of the society, these forces of evil have been either eliminated from its precincts or elevated through its ranks. In the degenerate stages of civilization, when the commitment to reason has decayed and obedience to virtue has rotted away, the traitor has achieved ascendancy and planted his flags of victory upon the houses of law and government. Ancient China had its traitors: two thousand years ago, Emperor Su Tung Po led a communist class war denouncing freedom as the "monopoly of capital" and establishing state regulation of profits, prices, markets and enterprises, and massive subsidies to farmers, in the name of a "mandate from heaven". Ancient Rome had its traitors: the caesars and emperors who overthrew the Senate, Republic and Constitution, preserving and defending freedom for seven hundred years, with the wild chariots of communist class war; and the Roman masses who first allowed and settled, and then exalted and worshiped, the alien movements of Christianity and barbarism. Britain, the storied birthplace of freedom in the West, had its traitors: since the dawn of the twentieth century, communism has been enacted by popular demand, peddled under such names as Social Insurance and Allied Services or the Beveridge Report, and the National Insurance Act, the National Assistance Act, and the National Health Service. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the former leader of the free world has been traveling down the dark road of treason. It has been assassinated by a movement of treason emanating from its rank and file and led by its highest ruling circles. It has been fouled by a miasma rising from its bottom most depths. It has been consumed by a cancer spreading and expanding into every corner of the state and society. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the United States of America has followed in the footsteps of ancient China, ancient Rome and modern day Britain and made a choice to betray its foundations, to shred its Constitution composed on the parchment of Anglo-Saxon culture and the Age of Enlightenment, and to hurl itself into the graveyard of failed states. Look at the implosion of America commencing at the dawn of the twentieth century and see a tragedy of world historical proportions and a crime against humanity occupying the front pages of the annals of moral and political disgrace. Look at the intensifying loss of freedom in America since the dawn of the twentieth century and see a dagger of treason unsheathed, gleaming with state invasion and intrusion into the lives of the people, and cutting down all hope for the success and survival of freedom in the West. Treason. Listen to the first volley launched against freedom. Listen to President Theodore Roosevelt promote statism in the name of antitrust laws, interstate commerce laws, the supervisory and regulatory power of the government, combating the evil doers of big business, and combating the malefactors of great wealth: "Almost every big business concern is engaged in interstate commerce, and such a concern must not be We have tried tried two remedies: the antitrust law and the interstate commerce law. Ultimately, and I hope with reasonable speed, the national government must pass laws which, while increasing the supervisory and regulatory power of the government, also permits such useful combinations as are made with absolute openness and as the representatives of the government may previously approve. There is a world wide financial disturbance. Most of it I believe to be due to matters not peculiar to the United States, and most of the remainder to matters wholly unconnected with any governmental action; but it may well be that the determination of the government (in which, gentlemen, it will not waver), to punish certain malefactors of great wealth, has been responsible for something of the trouble; at least to the extent of having caused these men to combine to bring about as much financial stress as possible, in order to discredit the policy of the government and thereby secure a reversal of that policy, so that they may enjoy unmolested the fruits of their own evil doing." (Address Of President Roosevelt On Occasion Of The Laying Of The Corner Stone Of The Pilgrim Memorial Monument, 1907). Treason. Listen to President Franklin Roosevelt peddle statism in the name of ending child labor, establishing fair wages, establishing fair regulation of the stock exchange and power utilities, and providing care for the unemployed, the elderly, and sick and crippled children. Listen to him peddle communism to the people and call it Social Security: "You and I have not forgotten the enthusiastic support that succeeded in ending the labor of children in mills and factories, in seeing a fairer wage level for those on starvation pay, and in giving to the workers hope for the right collectively to bargain with their employers. That success, I am glad to say, in large part still persists. You and I will not forget the long struggle to put an end to the indiscriminate distribution of fly by night securities and to provide fair regulation of the stock exchanges and of the great interstate public utility companies of our country. You and I--yes, every individual and every family in the land--are being brought close to that supreme achievement of this great Congress, the Social Security law which, in days to come, will provide the aged against distressing want, will set up a national system of insurance for the employed, and will expand well merited care to sick and crippled children. (The Meaning Of Progress, November 29, 1935). Treason. Listen to President Barack Obama proclaim that individuals do not create wealth through their effort, initiative, intelligence or hard work. They create wealth through the actions of society. Nobody succeeds on his own but succeeds by virtue of the state. The individual owes his success to others, everybody owes his success to everybody else, and a just society is a communist society which has abolished the American system of freedom: "There are a lot of wealthy, successful Americans who agree with me--because they want to give something back. They know they didn't--look, if you've been successful, you didn't get there on your own. You didn't get there on your own. I'm always struck by people who think, well, it must be because I was just so smart. There are a lot of smart people out there. It must be because I worked harder than everybody else. Let me tell you something--there are a whole bunch of hard working people out there. If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business, you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen. The Internet didn't get invented on its own. Government research created the Internet so that all the companies could make money off the Internet. The point is, is that when we succeed, we succeed because of our individual initiative, but also because we do things together. There are some things, just like fighting fires, we don't do on our own. I mean, imagine if everybody had their own fire service. That would be a hard way to organize fighting fires." (Remarks By The President At A Campaign Event In Roanoke, Virginia, July 13, 2022). Treason. The history of America since the dawn of the twentieth century provides a series of events for the formation of a timeline. This is a timeline of treason, a timeline which has continued uninterrupted up to the present day. Statism in the name of Progressivism. Statism in the name of the National Interest. Statism in the name of gender, race and class politics. Statism in the name of social justice. Statism in the name of Black Lives Matter, black supremacy and hatred of whites. Statism in the name of MeToo, radical feminism and hatred of males. Look at America today and see a mass movement of anticapitalism, hatred of Israel because it is capitalist, hatred of Israel because it is white, and support for Islam, Hamas and their networks of terror: "Joe Biden stood side by side with Alexandra Ocasio Cortes while she praised these antisemitic protesters at NYU and Yale and Columbia, this is their base, this is the Democrat Party, and Joe Biden sat there with a goofy grin on his face and said, you've got to listen to this woman, a sitting member of Congress. It is disgraceful. Sean, I'll tell you what a real president would do, a real president would say, Jewish students are going to be safe on our campuses, and if the universities will not protect them, the federal government will, and if need be, we'll send in the National Guard, like Eisenhower did when Democrat senators refused to integrate schools, a real president would say federal law enforcement will be there, you will not be subject to violence. But Joe Biden won't say that because he's terrified of ticking off the radical left in his own party." (Cruz: Biden Should Threaten Colleges with Sending in the Guard Like Eisenhower by Ian Hanchett, quoting Ted Cruz). One hundred years after the takeover of America by communism, fifty years after the commencement of bombardment by neocommunist gender, race and class missiles, by a resurgent Christian antiabortion movement and by an alliance of communists and Islamists, America is morally and spiritually bankrupt, stabbed in the back by the people.

INSURRECTION NOW

An insurrection is a violent act of revolt against a government. It is a revolution, a radical change in the form of government. It is initiated by sedition, conduct or speech inciting people to revolt. Adopted unanimously by the fifty six delegates to the Second Continental Congress on July 4, 1776, convening at the Pennsylvania State House, the United States Declaration of Independence was an act of sedition which explained to the world why the Thirteen Colonies in America had to stage an insurrection against Britain. The delegates who signed the declaration were America's Founding Fathers, and their document is one of the most influential justifications of insurrection in the history of the mankind. Educated by Anglo-Saxon culture, the British constitution and the Age of Enlightenment, the American insurrectionists recognized that there exist natural fundamental human rights, the rights to life, liberty and property, which no government can legitimately take away, and when a government takes these rights away, and this government cannot be changed by peaceful means, insurrection becomes a right, a duty and a necessity. Listen to the words of the declaration, reprinted and circulated throughout the world, echoing in the darkest dungeons of fear and oppression, inspiring free born people victimized by governments to break their chains and assume their rightful stations. Listen to the words of the declaration recognizing the existence of realities self evident. It is self evident that individuals are free born agents. It is self evident that they possess natural, fundamental human rights. It is self evident that these rights are the rights to life, liberty and property. It is self evident that these rights are the rights to flourish and achieve happiness as human beings ought to flourish and achieve happiness. It is self evident that the purpose of the government is to protect these rights and that when the government abdicates its responsibility and is no longer a protector but a destroyer of these rights, and cannot be reformed, it is the right and the duty of the people to overthrow it by force of arms: "When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness." Two and a half centuries after this foundational document of America was ratified, the dungeons of fear and oppression have returned to the nation. This time around, they have been constructed, not by a foreign enemy, but by internal forces of decay and disintegration, but the end result, an unconstitutional regime, looms over the people just as brutally and starkly. This time around, the oppressive regime is a mirror of the times, and not, as it was two and a half centuries, a violation of the times, which were bathed in the sunlight of Anglo-Saxon freedom and the ideas of the Enlightenment. This time around, the oppressive regime signals the end stages of Western civilization; it is not a countercurrent against but a current of a darkly flowing river; and the tyranny present in America represents the tyranny ruling the West itself which has pushed the West into moral and spiritual extinction. This tyranny has been brought by the explicit rejection of reason and enlightenment and the ascendancy of Marxism and other antienlightenment religions. In America in the twenty first century, the forces of tyranny have returned under a new guise, as a product of popular demand fueled by the degenerate character of the masses, and this popular regime, enjoying the overwhelming support of the majority, is unreformable and cannot be changed by peaceful means, and its oppression will not cease until it is forcibly overthrown. Confronted by an unAmerican regime whose violations of rights, reason and sanity are without precedent in the nation's history, civilized people recognize the necessity of an insurrection and recognize that their struggle is a struggle to save the soul of the West. Insurrection Now. Civilized people recognize the necessity of an insurrection because the 2020 presidential election was stolen from Donald Trump, the forty third president of the United States who sought to halt the advance of Marxism and its offshoots. The election was stolen by ballot box stuffing through the mail, by absentee ballots, by ballots manufactured for Joe Biden, by ballots with unverified signatures, by ballots unscrutinized and illegal, and by Democrat state officials changing election rules in violation of the Constitution, which grants to state legislatures the sole power to change rules: "The Democrats' gaming of the election process was implemented through a two pronged, grand, stuff the ballot box strategy designed to flood the six key battleground states with enough unscrutinized and potentially illegal absentee and mail in ballots to turn a decisive Trump victory into a narrow alleged Biden win. Prong one of the Democrat strategy dramatically INCREASED the amount of absentee and mail in ballots. Prong two dramatically DECREASED the level of scrutiny of such ballots. This resulted in a FLOOD of potentially illegal ballots into the battleground states more than sufficient to tip the scales from a decisive legal win by President Trump to a narrow and potentially illegitimate alleged victory by Joe Biden. Importantly, much of what the Democrat Party and its operatives did to effectively achieve what may well be an illegal result was pursued through a variety of legal means.

Nonetheless, at times, Democrat government officials also bent, and at times, broke the laws or rules of their state." (The Navarro Report, Volume Three, by Peter Navarro). Insurrection Now. Civilized people recognize the necessity of an insurrection because the American establishment, the nation's ruling circles embracing Marxist broadcast media, Marxist newspaper media, Marxist online media, Marxist social media, Marxist corporations, the Marxist Democrat Party and the Marxist elements in the Republican Party, have moved the nation into a cancel culture and Red Guard police state which has locked freedom into a dungeon: "If the Democrat Party, RINO elements of the Republican Party, the antiTrump mainstream media, and the out of control censoring social media oligarchs do not cease and desist from their efforts to suppress the search for truth about the 2020 election, history will judge all of these people, corporations, and institutions in the harshest possible manner. At this point, we have moved dangerously in what seems like a nanosecond from a full and vibrant American democracy to a communist Chinese style, cancel culture, police state guarded by a collusive social media oligopoly that is beyond out of control." (The Navarro Report, Volume Three, by Peter Navarro). Insurrection Now. Civilized people recognize the necessity of an insurrection because the American establishment represents a radical base. This base is the masses and it has launched a jihad. Fought by families around the hearth, by neighbors across the street, by campuses across the square, by offices in city centers and by factories in industrial parks, this is a holy war against constitutional rights, limited government and liberal democracy, and against their three shining symbols. Marching under the banners of Marxism, Islam and Hamas terror attacks, this is a holy war launched against Israel, America and the West: "Wednesday on FNC's Hannity, Senator Josh Hawley (R-MO) railed against proPalestinian protesters at US universities, who, in some cases, have threatened Jewish Americans while calling for the destruction of Israel. The Missouri Republican labeled the antiIsrael protesters 'bougie jihadists.' 'Senator, let's talk about the guard that you're calling for, which I believe would be the right call, but I don't see Biden wanting to alienate his radical base,' I think that's why he's not going to do it. 'Well, sure. I mean, this is all about the fact that he has a proHamas base, Sean,' host Sean Hannity said. 'But listen, Eisenhower did the right thing back in 1957 when he sent the 101st Airborne to Little Rock. Why not do it for Jewish Americans?' 'I mean, it shouldn't be that in this country in this day and age that, if you are a Jewish American, you fear for your life because all of these bougie jihadists at these universities whose brains are addled by TikTok are out there calling for your death calling for the destruction of the state of Israel,' Hawley replied. 'I mean, what is going on on these campuses? Send in the National Guard and wake these kids up. They ought to know they can't do this. They ought to know they don't have any right to occupy these campuses. They don't have any right to threaten their fellow students. They ought to snap them out of it, and the National Guard would help do it.' " (Hawley: Jewish Americans Fear For Their Lives Because Of 'Bougie Jihadists' At Universities by Jeff Poor). In America at the dawn of the twentieth century, a train came hurtling over the horizon. It was a train of treason. On its century long journey into the present day, it has picked up passengers, dark hooded figures dedicated to the subversion of freedom and the legacies of the Enlightenment. Open borders welcoming migrant scum by the tens of millions. Tolerance of Islam and its terror networks in the name of multiculturalism. Marxist class wars launched against the class talented, hard working, successful people. Marxist race wars launched in the name of black supremacy against the white population. Critical race theory which proclaims that progressive political theory is black racist theory which is critical of the Enlightenment ideals of racial equality and human essentialism. Marxist gender wars launched in the name of feminism against the male population, and subjecting it to a campaign of persecution in the form of sexual assault trials conducted without physical evidence, without eyewitness corroboration, without proof with certainty beyond a reasonable doubt, without drawing a distinction between accusations and evidence, without drawing a distinction between acts of touching and acts of violence, and without the application of fairness, impartiality or due process of law. Policies of racist and sexist admissions and employment discriminating against white males in the name of achieving diversity, equity and inclusion. Transgenderism which rejects the existence or importance of sex chromosomes and proclaims that gender is mutable and can be changed by human action, and that males who pretend they are females are females, and females who pretend they are males are males. The dismantling of the infrastructure of modern industry, technology and material progress in the name of reducing global greenhouse gas emissions. The weaponization of the legal system against voices opposed to Marxism, Islam and the politics of totalitarianism, jailing them as terrorists, bigots, xenophobes and purveyors of hate speech. A resurgent Christian movement which has placed the Conference of Catholic Bishops on the United States Supreme Court and ordered it to decide, in the case Dobbs versus Jackson Women's Health Organization, that states have a right to violate the First Amendment and impose religion, and to decide that the fusion of a one cell male gamete and a one cell female gamete occurring at the moment of conception, to produce a one cell zygote, is an actual human person by virtue of the infusion of a supernatural soul, and its destruction is an act of murder. This train of treason in the present day, after a century long journey, is laden to overflowing with unAmericanism, unpatriotism and unmitigated evil. Civilized people seek to derail it, destroy it and sweep the debris into the dustbin of history.

CAMPUS BROWNSHIRTS SHUT DOWN AMERICA

These boys and girls enter our organizations at ten years of age, and often for the first time get some fresh air. After four years of the Young Folk they go on to the Hitler Youth, where we have them for another four years. And even if they are still not complete national socialists, they go to Labor Service and are smoothed out there for another six, seven months. And whatever class consciousness or social status might still be left, the Wehrmacht will take care of that. Thus spoke Adolf Hitler on the single most successful mass movement in the Third Reich. The Hitler Youth, a paramilitary, national socialist youth organization for boys, modeled after its adult counterpart, the brownshirt Sturmabteilung. The Hitler Youth, formed in 1926, and after the SA, the oldest and largest paramilitary organ of national socialism, its membership increasing from two million in 1933 to eight million in 1940. The Hitler Youth, its purpose was to indoctrinate boys aged fourteen to eighteen in the tenets of a terrifying creed born from the devil's womb of Marxism. The nineteenth century master's rejection of freedom and creed of enslavement was retained but peddled in a race war in place of a class war. The Hitler Youth, its members imposed conformity and wore the same uniforms, sang the same songs and participated in the same activities. These were the uniforms, the songs and the activities of hate, and their hate target was Jews. Less than a century after the Hitler Youth was disbanded, it is back in business, peddling its race Marxism on the campuses of the former leader of the free world, scrawling out a message of fear to Jewish students and to all those who stand up for the cause of freedom, and shouting out the imagination defying suicide and collapse of America and the West. The national socialists are back in business by popular demand and are delivering an encore performance in the nation which led the Allied Powers onto victory against them in World War II. By popular demand, a nightmare from Hitler's hate regime has been resurrected and the ghosts are roaming America and have taken over its institutions of higher education. The nation which led the military defeat of Hitler's Germany is playing host to Hitler's Germany eighty years after the surrender of Hitler's Germany. This surrender betokened nothing beyond a defeat on the battlefield. Germany won the ideological war; the German creed of tribalism, irrationalism and antienlightenment became the prevailing orthodoxy of the West; and the winners rose from the ashes of Germany's defeat to return and rule America in the grimmest and bitterest irony in modern times. Look at America's campuses and see students blaze in a white hot fever, whirling, dancing and drum beating to the dark music of Jew hatred. See students shout out slogans in support of Palestinian murder and mayhem directed at Jews. See students demonstrate in favor of Islamic killers of Jews. See students riot in favor of Hamas terror attacks against Israel. See students demand genocide against Israel's Jews from the "river to the sea". See students demand disinvestment from and boycott of Israel by virtue of the fact that it is a free society which upholds Western values. See students chant hymns and blow horns in praise of antisemitism. See student displays of Jew hatred descend into acts of violence and vandalism. See students form a global network of Jew hatred, reaching from America to Australia and to Sweden to South Africa, and place Jews everywhere and anywhere in the world in the grip of fear and trembling. See mobs of Jew haters from Munich, Berlin, Nuremberg and Vienna in the 1930s return to life and cover academic groves in rivers of blood and gore. See Jewish students attacked, disrupted, disoriented, dishonored and thrown like dogs onto the street by a Hitler Youth, surging with the currents of today's postEnlightenment creeds: "A young woman danced and whirled like a dervish, another sat cross legged, beating on a drum; around them, twenty eight dupes marched in a circle chanting every vacuous slogan. I set my iPhone on video to ask: 'What does it feel like to be the useful idiots of Palestinian murderers and rapists?' Then I rephrased it in my mind. Not Palestinian, but Hamas. After all, not all Palestinians agree with the Islamic killers. But these young Americans clearly do. It was a mild little demonstration of students outside The New School on New York's 5th Avenue and East 13th Street. Of course, they chanted from the river to the sea, and divest, and we will not stop, and blew horns and cursed Israel, while a bored NYPD officer made sure people could still walk by. As they brushed past me and one deliberately knocked my phone as I recorded them, I also wondered whether my question would enrage these gullible young people? Would they snatch my phone, beat me, or worse, strike my beautiful Israeli wife who stood at my shoulder, calm yet bemused, shaking her head at this display of hatred for Jews? For it is clear, to anyone with a brain, that these campus demonstrators, protected by the law, are attacking Jews as readily as Israel. It isn't. It's worse. In the mid 1930s, the sleeping curse was awakening in Germany alone. Today, Jews are afraid in Australia, South Africa, all over Europe, as the useful idiots march, curse and verbally and sometimes physically abuse innocent Jews, in the name of protecting Palestinians. Today, everywhere, Jews ask themselves the generational question: Where can we be safe? Where do they not hate us? Many answer: But most don't hate us. It's just a vocal minority who conflate the actions of Israel with the Jewish people everywhere. Really? So where are they? Where are the demonstrations against the killers and their useful idiots who preach hatred and fear? If they are the silent majority, is it not time to speak out, to voice their rejection of murder and rape? I vacillated. What was the point? Would I change anybody's mind? I was just a face in the crowd, watching and wondering. Should I speak up? That took me back to 1938 in Vienna. I wondered, was there a face in the jeering crowd that wanted to speak up, to stop the spectacle, when Nazis forced my grandmother, and other Jews, to clean the street with a toothbrush? Later my mother collected her mother, shaken and disoriented, from the police station. Nobody spoke up then. Would I speak up now? Would I ask the only honest and worthwhile question, my little way of standing up for my people? Would I endanger myself and my wife?" (What If I Asked Them Why They Support Murderers And Rapists? by Martin Fletcher). Look at America's campuses and see demands that universities boycott companies and individuals which morally or financially support Israel because of the latter's determination to wipe out Hamas terror and make the Middle East safe for freedom. See Ivy League institutions grow rank with gutter weeds and confer the highest academic and social prestige on Jew hatred. See protests for terror, accommodations for terror, huts for terror, tents for terror and encampments for terror form cities within cities and shroud classrooms in darkness. See students from Austin to Atlanta to Texas to New York stage riots and shutdowns in support of Marxism, Islam, Palestine, the killing of innocent civilians, the extermination of Jews and the destruction of Israel. See Marxists, Islamists and the Ilhan Omars of the nation demand free speech for themselves and for nobody else and lead a national and international movement to turn back the clock of history and reduce civilization to a wasteland of neolithic, neoMarxist race politics: "Protests calling for universities to boycott companies and individuals with ties to Israel amid the ongoing war there have swept college campuses across the US. Tensions have been escalating at universities in the wake of the October 7 attack by Hamas that left around 1,200 people dead in Israel, and led to Israel's assault on Gaza that has killed more than 34,000 Palestinians. Major encampments and protests were seen first at Columbia University in New York, but have since erupted elsewhere across the country. Students have been arrested at campuses in Los Angeles, California and in Atlanta, Georgia. In Austin, Texas, the governor ordered state troopers to arrest protesters. Columbia was the first university to see a major proPalestinian encampment form on campus, and among the first to be accused of antisemitism. More than one hundred protesters were arrested last week after the Ivy League university's president asked police to clear the protest site. Her request followed her testimony to Congress about the university's response to alleged antisemitism on campus. But the mass arrests appear to have galvanized the movement, according to demonstrators who remained onsite one week later. Democratic Representative Ilhan Omar, whose daughter was arrested at Columbia, told BBC News the movement started with just a few students but quickly spread due to the mass arrests. 'This is a movement that started with only seventy students,' she told BBC News at Columbia on Thursday. 'And because Columbia University decided to crack down on them and violate their First Amendment, this has now spread nationally and internationally.' In Atlanta, several dozen protesters 'not affiliated' with Emory University set up tents on campus early Thursday morning, the school said in a statement. Administrators said the group of trespassers was later joined by members of the university community. But when the protesters refused to disperse, the Emory Police Department 'took a couple dozen people into custody.'" (Major Protests At US Universities by Max Matza). Promoting antisemitic hatred and venom within a framework of anticapitalism and antienlightenment, America's universities have been disgraced forever. Condemning Israel as a genocidal state by virtue of its liberal democracy, its Western outlook and its unwavering war on terror, America's universities have assembled their dark trumpets and assassination rifles and blasted out a message to the world. They have announced the second coming of the Third Reich.

THE EVENING LAND

Free fall is the motion of a body in which gravity is the sole force acting. An object in free fall near the surface of the Earth accelerates at a terrifying rate of ten meters per second every second and will crash and be destroyed unless it is protected on impact. Examples of objects in free fall include a spacecraft with its propulsion off, a person falling without a parachute and an object dropped from a height. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the West has been in a state of moral and spiritual free fall whose rate of acceleration signifies imminent crash and collapse. The fall commenced as a result of philosophical premises specific to the West, and a general state of mental and spiritual exhaustion common to all cultures after a certain period of time. Opposed to Classical Culture as night is opposed to day, Western Culture is a baroque culture, a romanticist culture, a culture which projects existence as infinite mind, will and subjectivity, a culture symbolized by the figure of Faust. Its opposite is Classical Culture, which exalted realism, sanity, common sense and ordinary experience. Symbolized by the figure of Apollo, Greek god of reason, Classical Culture collapsed from mental exhaustion during the Roman Empire, when it allowed alien, irrational forces to settle within its midst. It allowed the forces of religion, barbarism, socialism, welfarism, mob rule and state worship to overthrow it. The culture's starting philosophical premises were sound. Listen to its greatest philosopher defend the principle of sanity that all perception is the perception of something, and that perception is not self perception, which is a contradiction in terms, but is the perception of physical objects. Physical objects create perception: "Why do we not perceive the senses themselves as well as the external objects of sense, or why without the stimulation of external objects do they not produce sensation? It is clear that the power to perceive is not an actual perception. The power of perceive is parallel to what is combustible, for that never ignites itself spontaneously, but requires an agent which has the power of starting ignition. Otherwise it could have set itself on fire, and would not have needed actual fire to set it ablaze." (On The Soul by Aristotle, Book II, Chapter 5). Now listen to the greatest philosopher of Western Faustian Culture defend the principle of insanity and proclaim that perception is not the perception of physical objects, and physical objects do not even exist. Listen to Immanuel Kant proclaim that the world of physical objects is a mere appearance and delusion, that perception is the perception of nothing, and man is blind because he has eyes, because he perceives, and because he possesses a functioning visual apparatus: "I understand by the idealism of all appearances the doctrine that they are all together to be regarded as mere subjective representations and not things in themselves, and accordingly that time and space are only subjective form of perception and not determinations given for themselves or conditions of objects as things in themselves. To this idealism is opposed realism, which regards space and time as something given in themselves, independent of our perception." (Critique Of Pure Reason by Immanuel Kant). Kant lived during the Age of Enlightenment, an age which brought forth a countercurrent and countermovement to the Faustian tendency of the culture. Promoting the Classical philosophy of sanity, the philosophy of realism, common sense and ordinary experience, the Enlightenment was targeted for destruction by Kant. Proclaiming in his Critique that "I have found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith," Kant planted the seeds of destruction of of the glorious age in which he lived and his philosophy brought the West back its Faustian roots. To deny knowledge: the eternal but for civilized people inconceivable and imagination defying aim of the psychotic, was the aim of Kant and has been fundamental aim of the West since its inception. To deny knowledge: when civilized people read Kant, they cannot believe what they read, and they know that the culture in which they live is sick and is heading into catastrophe. Kant died in 1804, and for the next two centuries, his ideas brought forth insanity and upon insanity, and would push the culture into a state of free fall which commenced in the twentieth century. Two centuries of Kantian based insanity, which saw Hegel project reality as absolute mind, Marx project reality as a social construct and product of class, and Nietzsche project reality as the will to power, brought the West to the end of line commencing in the twentieth century. Free Fall. Philosophy since the dawn of the twentieth century has brought forth two neoKantian movements: continental philosophy, originating on the European continent, and analytic philosophy, originating in Britain. Rejecting the principle of sanity that man perceives physical objects, both camps proclaim that man perceives only his own consciousness, and the act of perception is an act of self perception which creates and structures the world: "It is with Kant that philosophical claims about the self attain new and remarkable proportions. The self becomes not just the focus of attention but the entire subject matter of philosophy. The self is not just another entity in the world, but in an important sense it creates the world, and the reflecting self does not just know itself, but in knowing itself knows all selves, and the structure of any and every possible self." (Continental Philosophy Since 1750: The Rise And Fall Of The Self by Michael Solomon). Originating on the continent, phenomenology proclaims that reality is that which is subjectively lived and experienced; it is that which subjectively appears to the perceiver; and true philosophy brackets and excludes all notions of physical existence. Existentialism proclaims that reality is dasein or human existence, human subject, human will, human dread, human anxiety and human crisis. Hermeneutics proclaims that reality is text, interpretation, and verbal and nonverbal communication without the communication of anything. Structuralism proclaims that reality is constituted by universal mental structures, patterns and relations: "Structuralism is the belief that the phenomena of human life are not intelligible except through their interrelations. These relations constitute a structure, and behind local variations in the surface phenomena there are constant laws of abstract structure." (Structuralism by Simon Blackburn, Oxford Dictionary Of Philosophy, edited by Blackburn). Poststructuralism proclaims that reality is constituted by individual, national and cultural mental structures and there are as many realities as there are people, nations and cultures, and a statement can be both true and false at one and the same time across different people, nations and cultures. Deconstruction proclaims that reality is constituted by subjective meanings and texts which are endlessly interpretable and can be endlessly taken apart. Critical theory proclaims that true philosophy must be critical of the Enlightenment beliefs that man perceives physical objects and all individuals possess rights, because such beliefs are a product of the white, capitalist power structure. It proclaims that reality is a product of the needs, interests and will to power of competing gender, race and class groups or intersections of such groups. Critical race theory agrees with critical theory on the white, male, capitalist origin of our belief that man perceives physical objects and individuals possess equal rights, but proclaims that a progressive society is based on neoMarxist race theory and is a black proletarian dictatorship which has disenfranchised, expropriated and exterminated whites. The influential pragmatist philosopher Jurgen Habermas proclaims that reality is constituted by public needs, interests, action, deliberation and consensus. Originating in Britain, analytic philosophy proclaims that reality is constituted by "language games" and the mission of philosophy is to make a "linguistic turn" and undertake as its supreme goal an examination, marked by maximum clarity and unimpeachable logical rigor, of the meanings of words independently of the facts of reality. Free Fall. The Kantian currents of philosophy ruling the West over the past two hundred years have born evil fruit and fermented an age of hatred and violence in the twenty first century. They have brought forth a triple headed, neoMarxist monster called gender, race and class politics which has formed an alliance with Islam. This axis of opposition to the Enlightenment proclaims that a progressive society is a radical, leftwing, tyrannical society. It proclaims that a progressive society is an antiAmerican, antiIsrael, antisemitic, antiWestern society. It proclaims that a progressive society is a black supremacist society ruled by blacks and blacks alone, which lynches, tortures and rapes whites. It proclaims that a progressive society is a segregated apartheid society whose lords and masters are blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society is an Islamic, Arab, Palestinian, Gaza and Hamas caliphate of terror. It proclaims that a progressive society is an ideological echo chamber which has outlawed free speech for those opposed to Marxism and Islam. It proclaims that a progressive society is a bigoted, racist, sexist society which discriminates against white males in order to achieve diversity and inclusion, and calls its unfair discriminatory policies the highest acts of fairness and equity. It proclaims that a progressive society is a demonstration and dark league overgrown with the poison ivy of neoMarxist tribalism and Islamic sectarianism, which has launched a holy war against the institutions of reason, sanity, freedom and equality: "The demonstrations currently taking place on many Ivy League campuses are not only about Palestinians, Gaza or even Israel. The war in Gaza is providing an excuse for antiAmerican and antiWestern radicals and anarchists to try to damage and weaken our government and other Western democracies. None of the slogans call for a two state solution or for release of the hostages. At a minimum they call for the end of Israel 'from the river to the sea' and its replacement by either an Islamic caliphate or a radical left wing tyrannical state. Few protesters are seeking democracy, civil liberties, equality or decency. Imagine if a group of white supremacists were to occupy an Ivy League campus demanding the lynching and rapes of African Americans, or imagine if a group of white former Apartheid leaders of South Africa were to demonstrate in favor of the return to white rule in South Africa: 'From the Atlantic to the Indian Ocean, South Africa will be free of all blacks and returned to exclusively white rule.' Would Columbia University tolerate such bigotry in the name of academic freedom? Most of the students and professors who are defending these student bigots are essentially saying 'Free speech for me but not for thee.' That is not how the First Amendment works. There must be one standard for all, but no Ivy League university would apply a single standard. They are part of the intersectionalist mentality that supports free speech for those favored by the diversity, equity, and inclusion bureaucracy but this opposes free speech for those who are disfavored." (Something Very Dangerous Is Brewing On America's College Campuses by Alan Dershowitz). In ancient times, the circle was revered as a perfect shape and symbol of divinity. In the context of historical investigation, the circle is the most dismal of all shapes, signifying the repetition of events and the reemergence of evil. The West was born in the Dark Age ruled by religion. It progressed from religion to reason and then reverted to religion. The twenty first century has brought the end point of this dark circular movement from insanity to sanity and back. In the twenty first century, eternal night has fallen on the institutions of the Enlightenment.

STRAIGHT As FOR NONWHITES

A teacher's pet is a student in school who holds an advantageous position due to the teacher's high opinion of him. Traditionally, the teacher's pet was the most academically successful student in the classroom, possessing higher levels of knowledge than the other students, and in consequence was called upon to answer questions more frequently than the others. In America in the twenty first century, a monster has broken into the classroom and kidnapped the teacher's pet. He has taken him into a laboratory high atop the mountains of hate. There he has broken him down and reassembled the parts. Brought back to life with the surging currents of political electricity, he has been transformed into a dark symbol of the times. The monster emerged from the satanic womb of Marxism and is called Gender, Race and Class Politics. His kidnap victim is now a symbol of the classroom war against whites launched by this monster. He is a symbol of the abolition of academic standards and the policy of discrimination in favor of nonwhites ruling public schools in America. Kidnapping gifted children, smashing school desks, tearing up school books and shredding school examination papers, this monster has rendered the nation's public schools unrecognizable. It has transformed American public education, once the envy of the free world, instilling in generations of children the knowledge and skills necessary to succeed in the modern world, public education brought to the free world by the former leader of the free world, into an indoctrination camp thundering with the goose steps of race politics. The shame of the nation, American public education in the twenty first century is a course in color communism which has squandered the minds of students and made them implode, and with this implosion made civilization implode. Look at America's school house today and see teachers lower academic standards to accommodate black and latino students. See teachers give black and latino students high grades based on their race and not their achievement and call this rank unfairness grading equity. See teachers increase grades for black and latino students and allow them to graduate whether they deserve to or not. See teachers give black and latino students a free pass on their behavior and allow black and latino hoodlums to terrorize classrooms. See teachers allow black and latino students to submit take home assignments late. See teachers give black and latino students preferential treatment in the name of social justice. See teachers make grading lenient for black and latino students in the name of obtaining accurate results. See teachers allow black and latino students to retake examinations until they pass. See teachers refuse to award zeros to black and latino students no matter how abysmal their academic performance. See teachers encourage black and latino students to be indolent and underperform by awarding them automatic passing grades. See teachers inflate grades for black and latino students in the name of combating systemic racism. See teachers send black and latino students into the highest academic ranks in the name of closing the achievement gap between whites and nonwhites and create equitable outcomes. See teachers allow black and latino students to show up late for classes or not to show up at all. See teachers lower expectations for black and latino students to zero. See teachers indoctrinate students in the religion of black and brown racial supremacy in the name of giving them an antiracist education. See teachers indoctrinate students in the religion of critical race theory, which proclaims that progressive politics is based on racist theories which criticize the Enlightenment philosophy of reason, individual rights and human essentialism, and promote black and latino swastika politics and dictatorship in its place. See teachers excuse the refusal of black and latino students to work hard and keep up with white students by telling them that meritocracy is a white supremacy. See teachers proclaim that black and latino students should not be encouraged to improve themselves academically because the notion of objective truth is a white construct. See teachers peddle discrimination in favor of black and latino students under the guise of equitable grading practices. See teachers proclaim that objective, merit based grading harms black and latino students and must be abolished. See teachers proclaim that schools have a moral obligation to treat black and latino students as a master race and allow them to refuse homework and disrupt lessons. See teachers proclaim that an educational system which judges students on the basis of their academic abilities and not their skin color is rigged against black and latino students. See teachers reject academic based grades, tests and examinations in favor of those based on politics and ideology. See teachers reject the traditional emphasis on academic progress and excellence as demoralizing to black and latino students. See teachers serve as classroom megaphones for the black and latino communities in their campaign to shut down liberal education and usher in a new updated, twenty first century Third Reich: "Joe Feldman has faced many tough crowds in the course of successfully selling his Grading for Equity program to school districts across the nation. During the consultant's presentations, teachers concerned that his approach lowers standards have rolled their eyes, questioned his understanding of students, and worse. 'A guy in the front row got his stuff together and walked out of the room,' Feldman told RealClearInvestigations. Despite the frequent resistance from teachers, dozens of districts from California to Massachusetts are giving the consultant's ambitious project a shot. As schools face a series of crises, including a spike in chronic absenteeism and sharp academic decline, grading for equity offers a path to better grades and higher graduation rates. Its practices include the removal of behavior in calculating grades, the end of penalties for late assignments, allowing students to retake exams, and a ban on zeros as the lowest mark. Since the pandemic, districts have been lowering standards by making grading more lenient to help struggling students, according to several studies. But Feldman insists that his sweeping overhaul isn't part of that controversial trend. He says the practices he promotes are a matter of fairness and accuracy in an educational system that's stacked against blacks, latinos and other disadvantaged students. Grading for equity, however, stirs enough dissent among teachers and parents that some districts have dropped the difficult revamp in midstream. They say Feldman's reforms are a form of leniency that brings out the worst in some students, hurting the very kids he wants to help. 'What's most troubling are the practices that lower expectations, like giving a 50 percent grade instead of a zero even when a student doesn't attempt the assignment,' said Meredith Coffey, a former teacher and now a researcher at Thomas B. Fordham Institute who cowrote a report on grading for equity. 'If students know that they could do nothing and get 50 percent, why would they work hard? Many would do nothing.' In some districts, grading for equity is part of the controversial agenda that's taken hold in urban areas and seeks to wash away perceived 'systemic racism' in classrooms in the wake of the George Floyd murder in 2020. In Fairfax County, a district that's embraced grading for equity, leaders have also pushed 'antiracist' education for students and paid author and crusader Ibram X. Kendi $20,000 to give a one hour Zoom presentation, telling staff that antiracism means working to achieve equitable outcomes. Like critical race theory, grading for equity is galvanizing divisions in the cultural conflict over public education. Progressives support it as a path to closing the stubborn achievement gap between rich and poor students while conservatives fear it further undermines high expectations that encourage all students to strive to improve. A savvy promoter, Feldman frequently posts on X, expressing his excitement to schools and conference organizers who tap his expertise. He likes to plug his book, too. Grading for Equity, with a second edition in 2023, has sold 175,000 copies, a top five bestseller from publisher Corwin. Grading for equity, a term coined by Feldman, isn't a fringe movement. Some districts adopted pieces of the program before the pandemic undermined the ability of many students to keep up academically. Since then, many more districts have embraced it." (No More Zeroes: Now It's 'Grading For Equity' In Schools by Vince Bielski). For centuries, the little red school house was a shining symbol of American education. It was built by the Puritans who came to America in 1630. From their very first day in the New World, they sought to achieve mass literacy and their progress made Americans the most literate people in the world, and moved John Adams to proclaim: "A native born American who cannot read and write is as rare as a comet or an earthquake." Four hundred years after the glorious educational successes of the Puritans, the American school house has come tumbling down. It was bulldozed by the high priests of an alien religion peddling the antiEnlightenment poison of race politics.

AUDUBON SOCIETY SHUT DOWN

He was an artist, a naturalist and an ornithologist and his influence on ornithology is far reaching. He did something unprecedented. He made a pictorial record of all the bird species in North America, and his color plate illustrated production, The Birds Of America, is the greatest work in ornithology ever created. He discovered twenty five species of birds, and his name can be seen in streets, neighborhoods and towns across America. His name was John James Audubon, and this name, standing for scientific observation, understanding and artistry at the highest level, inspired the creation of the oldest and most prestigious ornithological organization in the world. Established in 1905, the Audubon Society had for a century carried on its mission without surcease to study and conserve birds and their habitats, and did its noble work of citizen science through five hundred chapters spread out like an eagle's wings across America. In the twenty first century, this storied organization lost its wings and crashed. It became infected with a sickness which has felled institution after institution across the West and sentenced civilization to death. This sickness is the rejection of reason and the embrace of a Marxist religion called gender, race and class politics, and in the twenty first century, after one hundred years of indefatigable work in the service of science, the Audubon Society fell to the Earth and became trapped in the tar pits of strange and psychotic beliefs. Emerging from the womb of gender politics, transgenderism rejects one hundred years of research in genetics, commencing with the pioneering studies of Edmund Wilson and Nettie Stevens, establishing that gender is determined by sex chromosomes, by X and Y chromosomes for males and two Y chromosomes for females, and is thus intrinsic and immutable. Rejecting the reality or relevance of genes in the determination of gender, transgenderism proclaims that gender can be changed by human action or belief. In the twenty first century, the Audubon Society has been rendered lifeless and immobile in the asphalt of an assault on reality blasting out of the psychotic chambers of Marxism. It has become a propaganda organ of a global movement promoting transgender politics, gay politics, lesbian politics, and race and gender politics in place of the empirical science championed by the glorious eponym of the Audubon Society. Look at the Audubon Society today and see Marxist horseman of the apocalypse, named Gender, Race and Class, gallop over the horizon and kidnap little children. See them teach these children that plants and animals can be gay, lesbian, bisexual, pansexual and can change their gender. See them teach these children that plants and animals can be gender fluid, gender indeterminate and can have no gender at all. See them teach these children that plants and animals form an inclusive community which mirrors the gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender politics promoted by progressive societies. See them teach these children that plant and animal communities, and progressive societies alike, are green, healthy, and called LGBTQIAP+. See them teach these children that there exists diversity in nature and diversity in society and this diversity explodes the myth that there are fixed genders and that heterosexuality is the norm. See them teach these children that the belief in the existence of sex chromosomes is a product of white science and has no place in an equitable society. See them teach these children that those who support empirical science and criticize the tenets of transgenderism are opposed to the work, culture, values and mission of progressive societies and must be censored. See them teach these children that those who recognize the importance of genes in the determination of gender are loathsome, defamatory and incapable of having respectful conversations with progressive people who support transgenderism. See them teach these children that males who pretend they are females and females who pretend they are males must have full access to all the facilities in society just as transgender plants and animals have full access to their communities. See them teach these children that a progressive society is a welcoming space for psychotic individuals who believe they are members of the opposite sex and demand to be treated as members of the opposite sex. See them teach these children that people who believe that gender is as genetically determined as eye color are purveyors of hate and ignorance and must be rejected by true bird enthusiasts and nature lovers. See them teach these children that transgenderism and homosexuality are documented natural phenomena and recognition of their existence is an imperative to keep psychotic, gender dysphoric children safe and valued. See them teach these children that progressive scientists, naturalists and educators have expunged the study of biological facts and realities from studies of gender and sexuality and imposed a religion of radical politics upon nature and society: "Well, everybody's heard about the bird. The bird is, after all, the word. In this postapocalyptic 'diversity, equity, and inclusion' age, the gay bird, the trans bird, the bi-bird, is the word. Or bi-bi birdie, if you prefer. The Southern Wisconsin Bird Alliance, formerly known as Madison Audubon, offers LGBTQIAP+ in Nature, a class exploring the diverse range of sexuality and so-called gender fluidity in the animal kingdom. To fourth graders. 'We know that there is a beautifully wide range of ways that humans identify, and scientists have learned that there are many examples of plants and animals that are LGBTQIAP+ in nature, too!', the alliance declares on its website. You can come out now, lavender. Your secret's out. And ferns, the lesbians of plants, you're not fooling anyone. 'We created a lesson on this topic last year and recently shared with one of our fifth grade groups. It provided a great opportunity to build inclusive community within the classroom and led to thoughtful questions and discussion from the kids,' the environmental group gushes. Just in case you're scoring along at home, the ever expanding alphabet of depravity in human beings is now being foisted on unsuspecting flora and fauna. Kids can learn all about fish 'that change sex (sometimes repeatedly)'—without the help of child mutilating doctors. They can catch up with 'bisexual bonobos' (real swingers, those monkeys), or 'gender fluid' hummingbirds. The lesson is open to grades four through eight, 'with options for adjusting for elementary students through high school.' Do they save the pansexual pandas for the upperclassmen? Here's what each class gets, according to the website: 1. A google slides presentation to show kids with supporting notes for teachers. This can be used virtually or in person. 2. A document for printing only the images: useful for teaching without screens. 3. Suggestions for discussion topics, creating research projects around this area, and nature journaling activities to follow the lesson. How about this for a discussion topic? Toucan Sam: We know he's fruity, but is he gay? Or a possible journal entry: Dear Diary, Exit, stage left. I always suspected Snagglepus might be gay. Now, thanks to LGBTQIAP+ in Nature I know. The Southern Wisconsin Bird Alliance is taking this wild pride event directly to Madison area educators so the deep DEI indoctrination may continue in arguably one of the most left-bending school districts in America. And, yes, taxpayers are picking up part of the tab. 'Pride Month is a time to celebrate the beautifully wide range of ways that humans identify. Did you know that many other animal and plant species are just as diverse?' An Instagram post from last June declared. 'This new set of lessons and activities explores the lives of a few of the many LGBTQIAP+ creatures that are part of our amazing world!' Carolyn Byers, the Southern Wisconsin Bird Alliance's director of education, shared the joys of the bestial sexual spectrum at the 2023 Madison Area Green and Healthy Schools Summit, sponsored by the Wisconsin Association for Environmental Education. The association is a 'member based, professional community of individuals and organizations with diverse backgrounds that promotes responsible environmental action, elevates voices for environmental justice, and celebrates excellence in environmental education,' according to its website. Nothing says excellence in environmental education like a robust conversation about the trans birds and bees. Last year's summit was held at Madison's Wingra School and included a Madison Teacher Panel Discussion featuring several educators. The summit taught teachers about all kinds of wacky and wild stuff. The bird alliance's Byers led a session on 'Talking About Big Topics with Kids: Diversity in Nature Lessons Created by Madison Audubon for Your Classroom.' The bird alliance says that 'the mainstream environmental movement has historically been led by and for white folks.' Summit attendees learned all about 'how our educators are beginning to shift that by centering diverse communities in the lessons we teach and in the community we build with the students.' " (The Southern Wisconsin Bird Alliance Offers 'LGBTQIAP+ In Nature,' A Class Exploring Animal Sexuality And 'Gender Fluidity' To Fourth Graders by M. D. Kittle). He was the father of the scientific method of empiricism. He stood before the Catholic Inquisition, rejected the Church backed geocentric doctrine of Ptolemy, and championed the empirical, heliocentric doctrine of Copernicus that the Earth revolves around the Sun. He was found guilty of heresy, was forced to recant, and was sentenced to spend the rest of his life under house arrest. As he was led away from the court, he turned to his inquisitors and proclaimed to them, and yet it moves, referring to the Earth's movement around the Sun, established by the facts. Four hundred years after Galileo martyred himself to the cause of truth, the inquisitors have returned. Establishing gender, race and class politics as an official state religion, they have set fire to the Audubon Society.

RED NOISE

Music, mousike in ancient Greek, "the art of the Muses", the arrangement of sounds to create melody, has been delighting and inspiring people for forty thousand years. The first music to beautify the Earth came out of the Divje Babe flute, a cave bear thigh bone with spaced holes unearthed in a paleolithic cave in Slovenia. The world's oldest known musical instrument, this neanderthal flute set the stage for a branch of art which would bring unmitigated joy to billions of people from every station of life and in every corner of the world. In the twenty first century, music has come to grief, shouted down and drowned out by the screechings of subversives. A global movement dedicated to the destruction of the legacies of the Enlightenment, a movement born in the malarial swamplands of mysticism and tribalism roiling with hatred and rage, has shut down music and replaced it with megaphone thunder on behalf gender, race and class politics. Spreading into every aspect of society, the cancer of Marxism has consumed the world of music and set forth the dark notes of politics and the shrill sounds of moral dissonance in place of the musical perfection and excellence which for thousands of years civilized people's souls. Look at music education today and see Red Guards masquerading as musicians proclaim that a progressive university has eliminated the study of white composers from the music curriculum. See them proclaim that progressive musicians are race and gender social justice warriors. See them proclaim that progressive musicians are street agitators declaiming on soapboxes marked community engagement. See them proclaim that progressive musicians promote racism and sexism in the name of diversity and inclusion and promote discrimination against white males as the highest form of equity. See them proclaim that progressive musicians reject the Enlightenment belief in human essentialism and emphasize race and gender differences among people. See them proclaim that progressive music professors teach a creed of belonging to the tribe in place of freedom for the individual. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum teaches students that capitalism is a system of injustice and unfairness which targets blacks and hispanics. See them proclaim that a progressive university selects music students on the basis of race and ethnicity and gives preferential treatment to hispanic candidates. See them proclaim that a progressive university awards doctoral degrees in music to unqualified hispanic students in order to increase hispanic representation. See them proclaim that a progressive university awards degrees in music on the basis of the racial and ethnic demographic composition of society. See them proclaim that a progressive university has decolonized its music curriculum by eliminating the study of the Western canon of masters. See them proclaim that a progressive university has eliminated academic standards and high quality education in music and automatically awards degrees to members of underrepresented groups in society. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum has dispensed with the teaching of music and seeks to empower black and hispanic revolutionaries. See them proclaim that a progressive university hires members of minority groups for its music faculty because they are members of minority groups. See them proclaim that a progressive university has established a comprehensive music curriculum which begins and ends with studies of race, communism and the promotion of black supremacy. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum is a study of the theory and practice of black political violence. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum provides a philosophical defense of black terror and the killing of innocent people. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum encourages black and hispanic students to commit destructive acts against society in the name of race supremacy and communist power. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum has smashed the idols of the Enlightenment, the idols of reason, order, beauty and sanity, and declared holy war against civilization. See them proclaim that a progressive university feeds on public funding and federal student loans but establishes a music faculty which violates the nation's Constitution and Bill of Rights by discriminating against white male candidates. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum promotes black imperialism in the name of black liberation and black racism in the name of antiracism. See them proclaim that a progressive music curriculum promotes the overthrow of liberal democracy and the establishment of a racist, anticivilizational, black power, totalitarian dictatorship: "Applicants for a University of New Mexico music professor position should have an interest in 'decolonized music education curriculum,' according to an open job listing. Other potential interests include 'social justice,' or 'community engaged performance practices,' according to the job posting for a visiting assistant professor. 'A demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion and student success as well as working with broadly diverse communities,' is also sought. The job requirements are about the university's '2040 goals' for 'diversity' on campus, according to a university statement sent to The College Fix. 'The College [of Fine Arts], along with the University, has a longstanding commitment to the values of diversity, equity, and inclusion,' a spokesperson told The College Fix via email. The College of Fine Arts 'is in full support of the University's 2040 goals to respect and celebrate the differences of all persons, and value working and learning in a collaborative environment where diversity is cherished with a shared sense of belonging.' Among other things, these 2040 goals include 'addressing historical and current injustices and inequities among URM and other minoritized faculty,' and 'doubling hispanic doctoral student [enrollment] through analyzing doctoral student demographic composition by race and ethnicity and doctoral degree conferral rates by race and ethnicity.' The university did not directly address questions asked about examples of social justice and music and what 'decolonized music education curriculum' means. 'The mission of the University of New Mexico's College of Fine Arts is to positively impact the region and empower all underrepresented people of the state to pursue a high quality education in the fine arts,' the college stated. 'The College itself provides a comprehensive curriculum and incorporates DEI values in music education that provide a strong practical, theoretical, and philosophical foundation for all its students,' a spokesperson said. An education commentator criticized 'decolonization' in music education. Heartland Institute fellow S. T.

Karnick called it 'the academic equivalent of tearing down the statues of great leaders of the past,' in an email to The Fix. 'Programs that promote such doctrines are doing students and their parents a disservice and undermining the foundations of the civilization on which those very institutions depend,' Karnick said. 'Taxpayers should not be dragooned into supporting these enormously destructive activities either directly or indirectly,' Karnick said. 'The federal government should require all academic institutions that accept students' Pell Grant or federal student loan money, or any other support through government money or regulations, to ensure that, at minimum, all campus programs align with the nation's Bill of Rights.' Karnick said, 'institutions that want to undermine our freedoms of speech, religion, assembly, and firearms and the other rights and privileges of citizens of the United States should have to go their own way without taxpayer support.' 'Scholars have a right to think and say whatever is on their minds,' he said. They have no right, however, to use other people's money for that purpose.' The University of New Mexico is not the only school looking to incorporate DEI into the fine arts. For example, Ohio State University has an 'antiracist dance' instructor. The University of California Berkeley also employs a 'social justice theater practitioner.' " (University Of New Mexico Seeks 'Decolonized Music Education' Professor by Anna Wascovich). Look at music education today and see race power ideologues proclaim that music written about, performed or composed by whites is inferior to music written about, performed or composed by blacks. See them proclaim that Western symphonic music, featuring the rational perfection of melody in the form of movements thundered out with power to the ends of the Earth, is a product of white, racist, Eurocentric norms, and must be eliminated from the study of music: "The music education field is and has remained predominantly white for the last thirty years. Silence about the dominance of whiteness remains pervasive in music education programs, despite a growing body of scholarship surrounding this topic. In this article, we argue that the entire admissions process for United States music education programs, regardless of reform attempts and a sizable body of academic scholarship, remains inherently racist. We posit that despite lip service, style appearances, and isolated cases of structural change, the majority of universities and schools of music have no intention of making structural shifts that do not serve their interests. We believe the systemic and structural manner in which the admissions process has been maintained demonstrates how programs continue to serve a white normative, Eurocentric model." (Disrupting Racism In Music Education: Conceptualizing Admissions Processes Through The State And The War Machine by Erika Knapp and Whitney Mayo). Noise is a loud, unpleasant sound which causes a disturbance. In the field of electronics, it is the unwanted disturbance of an electrical signal. In the field of communications, it is the unwanted disturbance of an information signal. After one thousand years of Western music, commencing with the single line chanting soaring through Catholic cathedrals and expanding into infinite space, Western music has crashed into its doom, swamped by the noise of a rampaging monster. Smashing symphonies, sonatas and songs of beauty, this is the monster called Gender, Race and Class Politics.

THE WEST BANS CARS

It was called the "horseless carriage". Invented by Carl Benz in 1886, when it appeared as the Benz Patent Motorwagen, it is the automobile, a motor vehicle for wheels, and for over a century, it has been an essential part of civilization. The automobile: provider of mass transit to billions of people throughout the world, an instrument of work moving freely from far off place to far off place, and a source of social well being through leisure and travel opportunities without precedent in the history of mankind. The automobile: symbol of human innovation, scientific research and development, and the technological mastery of time and space which has made the West the envy of the world. In the twenty first, this glorious child of the Scientific Revolution and the Age of Enlightenment has fallen under attack by a movement of man haters on the march, and in the civilization which invented it, it has been taken off the road. This movement is an offshoot of Marxist class politics and has developed the Marxist proletarian war waged against skilled, intellectual, innovative, managerial, entrepreneurial labor into a war against technology, factories, industry and civilization as such. The neoMarxist environmentalist movement peddles its program of civilizational destruction under the name environmentalism and this program peddles a myth by which it seeks to justify its acts of violence. The myth is called the theory of man made global warming. Look at its arguments and see exaggeration and hysteria on display in dazzling technicolor. See the denial of natural causes of climate change. See the denial that the Earth's climate in fact varied in warming and cooling cycles for thousands of years before the advent of man. See the denial of the Little Ice Age, which occurred while man made greenhouse gas emissions were increasing. See the denial that the Earth has in fact warmed far less than the environmentalists' climate models predict. See the denial that carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere are in fact necessary and beneficial to the flourishing of life on Earth, increasing crop yields and feeding billions of people. See the denial that global warming has not in fact increased natural disasters and not led to greater frequencies of hurricanes, floods or droughts. See the poisoning of science with politics and the promotion of a climate policy as unsupported by the facts as it is sinister in aim and intention. Its aim and intention is to reverse the clock of history and send it racing backward into the year zero spread out across the savage plains: "Climate science should be less political, while climate policies should be more scientific. Scientists should openly address uncertainties and exaggerations in their predictions of global warming, while politicians should dispassionately count the real costs as well as the imagined benefits of their policy measures Natural as well as anthropogenic factors cause warming The geological archive reveals that Earth's climate has varied as long as the planet has existed, with natural cold and warm phases. The Little Ice Age ended as recently as 1850. Therefore, it is no surprise that we now are experiencing a period of warming. Warming is far slower than predicted. The world has warmed significantly less than predicted by IPCC on the basis of modeled anthropogenic forcing. The gap between the real world and the modeled world tells us that we are far from understanding climate change. Climate policy relies on inadequate models. Climate models have many shortcomings and are not remotely plausible as policy tools. They do not only exaggerate the effect of greenhouse gases, they also ignore the fact that enriching the atmosphere with CO₂ is beneficial. CO₂ is plant food, the basis of all life on Earth CO₂ is not a pollutant. It is essential to all life on Earth. More CO₂ is favorable for nature, greening our planet. Additional CO₂ in the air has promoted growth in global plant biomass. It is also profitable for agriculture, increasing the yields of crops worldwide. Global warming has not increased natural disasters. There is no statistical evidence that global warming is intensifying hurricanes, floods, droughts and suchlike natural disasters, or making them more frequent. However, there is ample evidence that CO₂ mitigation measures are as damaging as they are costly. Climate policy must respect scientific and economic realities There is no climate emergency. Therefore, there is no cause for panic and alarm. We strongly oppose the harmful and unrealistic net zero CO₂ policy proposed for 2050. Go for adaptation instead of mitigation; adaptation works whatever the causes are. OUR ADVICE TO THE EUROPEAN LEADERS IS THAT SCIENCE SHOULD STRIVE FOR A SIGNIFICANTLY BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF THE CLIMATE SYSTEM, WHILE POLITICS SHOULD FOCUS ON MINIMIZING POTENTIAL CLIMATE DAMAGE BY PRIORITIZING ADAPTATION STRATEGIES BASED ON PROVEN AND AFFORDABLE TECHNOLOGIES." (There Is No Climate Emergency, Global Climate Intelligence Group). Look at the West today and see automobiles under attack in America as they have never been under attack before. See them condemned as smokestacks of environmental catastrophe. See them condemned as chimneys of carbon dioxide contamination. See them condemned as funnels of poisonous clouds. See them condemned as gas powered monsters spewing out filth. See them condemned as merciless engines of planetary incineration. See them condemned as Satan's preeminent status symbols. See them condemned as raging vehicles of heat trapping doom. See the government violate the Constitution and do something never before attempted in the history of the nation. Under the pretext of environmental protection, see it ban tractors, harvesters, sprayers, pickup trucks, business enterprises and the free market and push civilization into the dustbin of history: "Just as Barack Obama did, Biden has weaponized the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to advance his political agenda at the expense of average American families. The EPA's new rules, issued just a few weeks ago, demand that car manufacturers severely cut the emissions produced by their vehicles. The EPA claims these companies can meet the new benchmark if 44% of all new cars, SUVs, and pickup trucks are fully electric by 2030, with that percentage meant to increase through 2032. This is effectively a ban on gas powered vehicles: As high demand for fewer and fewer new gasoline vehicles drives up prices, the foundation of American transportation—especially for families outside major cities—will become unaffordable or unavailable within the next decade. This is staggering, unconstitutional government overreach. Consider the cost this rule will impose on working class Americans, small businesses, and farmers. Despite subsidies and tax credits, electric vehicles only accounted for 7% of new car sales last year, and they were primarily bought by higher earners as an additional vehicle. Indeed, nearly half of all EVs in the United States are registered in California, a place where such purchases are more viewed as a status symbol and virtual signaling than clear economics. Farmers in particular rely on tractors, harvesters, and sprayers that require the high power and endurance of diesel engines, while the 2022 Agricultural Census recorded that 1.47 million farms across America owned 3.16 million semitrucks or pickups. Electric vehicles could potentially be of great benefit to farmers and small businesses someday, just as gas powered vehicles are now—but today isn't that day. That's why our federal government should allow the natural power of the free market to produce electric vehicles that can genuinely compete with gas vehicles. Flooding the market with subsidies that grant EVs an unfair advantage only disincentivizes innovation." (Biden Has Weaponized the EPA—It Should Be Dissolved by Mike Pompeo). Look at the West today and see automobiles in Europe smashed and set on fire on the altar of a green agenda. See automobiles banned in the name of cutting carbon emissions by one hundred percent. See automobiles banned in the name of achieving climate neutrality. See the European Parliament convene in the capital cities of the Enlightenment, disgrace the Enlightenment by banning automobiles and their civilizational infrastructure, and spread mass destruction under the banners of a neoMarxist dogma of man made global warming: "Lawmakers at the European Parliament approved a measure to support the ban on sales of petrol and diesel cars by the year 2035 as the bloc doubles down on its green agenda. Convening in the French city of Strasbourg on Wednesday, MEPs passed a measure that would require automakers to cut carbon emissions by 100 per cent by 2035, effectively prohibiting the future sale of new combustion engine cars across the 27 member states. The legislation would also ban the sale of hybrid vehicles, which still use some gas, after a measure to protect them from the center right European People's Party was struck down. The EPP also failed to pass an amendment to take the total carbon emissions involved in the production of a vehicle into account, Euractiv reported. Hailing the vote, the EU's environmental committee chair Pascal Canfin wrote: 'This position of the European Parliament is an important victory and consistent with our objective of climate neutrality.' " (Ban On New Fossil Fuel Cars By 2035 Approved By EU Parliament by Kurt Zindulka). In the twenty first century, hoodlums race down the highways of the West. Speeding, swerving and skewing out of control, they have run decent, law abiding motorists off the road. Their official cause is reducing carbon emissions. Their actual program is to halt and reverse the wheels of progress. In consequence of their violence, combustion engines and gasoline powered vehicles lie burning in ditches. Along with them, modern technological, industrial and civilizational activity has gone up in blazes.

BARBARIANS IN THE SADDLE

I saw that these inhuman monsters were actually launching their canoe over the living bodies of their victims. But there was no pity in the breasts of these men. Forward they went in ruthless indifference, shouting as they went, while high above their voices rang the dying shrieks of those wretched creatures as, one after another, the ponderous canoe passed over them, burst the eyeballs from their sockets, and sent the life blood gushing from their mouths. Oh reader, this is no fiction! I would not, for the sake of thrilling you with horror, invent so terrible a scene. It was witnessed. It is true—true as that accursed sin which has rendered the human heart capable of such diabolical enormities. This is a scene from the most famous and respected work of juvenile fiction ever written. Exalted as a classic work for primary school children, it was published in Britain in 1857 and has never been out of print. It would inspire generations of youth to venture out onto distant battlefields and fight for the success of civilization. The book is entitled Coral Island: A Tale Of The Pacific Ocean, the author is Robert Michael Ballantyne, and its glorious theme is the civilizing effects of British imperialism on the farthest corners of the world. Inhuman monsters, merciless killing machines, diabolical madmen and psychopathic savages dripping with blood: this is the evil three boys marooned on a South Pacific island, survivors of a shipwreck, encounter and defeat in Ballantyne's thrilling tale. Less than two centuries after the appearance of Ballantyne's masterwork, barbarism has returned to the world and invaded the very precincts of the West. Its provenance was not the distant South Pacific but the reading room of the British National Library, in the national birthplace of modern freedom, in the former capital of a global empire spreading freedom the likes of which the world had never seen before. The provenance of the barbarism attacking civilization today on all sides was the mind of a malefactor who ensconced himself in Britain in the nineteenth century because no other nation would grant him the freedom to peddle his hate. On March 14, 1883, he was buried in Highgate Cemetery in London but his spirit rose and spread across the world. It formed a specter which has haunted the past one hundred years, and in the twenty first century, it has taken over the West. From the Tomb of Karl Marx there arose powers and forces which would change the world. There arose an alien religion of tribalism which rejected the Enlightenment belief in human essentialism and divided up mankind into warring camps. There arose the fury of class war waged by the class of the ignorant and the unskilled, called the proletariat, against civilization. There arose the fury of race war waged by German Aryans against civilization. There arose the fury of race war waged by black communists against civilization. There arose the fury of gender war waged by female communists against civilization. A monster breathing the fires of class politics in the nineteenth century mutated in the twentieth century into a triple headed monster breathing the fires of gender, race and class politics. Inspired by the original proletarian attack on the Enlightenment launched by Marx, and necessitated by the logic of tribalism, the dynamic of separatism and the movement of secession unleashed by Marx, the nightmare creature called Gender, Race and Class Politics has unleashed barbarian hordes upon the West, and plunged it into the wild, dangerous darkness of the South Pacific described in Ballantyne's story, a darkness dispelled by the brave efforts of his boy heroes. Look at the West today and see a scenario unfold composed by Marx and his fellow travelers. See a story of cruelty, violence and hate enacted by Marx's mobs. See Marxists and Islamists join forces in a campaign to overthrow a common enemy: liberal democracy, symbolized in the Middle East by Israel and Jews. See this axis of terror scream at Jews, spit at Jews, beat up Jews, block Jews from entering universities, and shout death to Jews and death to Israel. See it shout death to America and death to the West. See it voice support for the Hamas terror group which invaded Israel on October 7, 2024, killed 1,200 civilians and took 250 civilians hostage. See its college professors voice support for Palestinian protests demanding the destruction of Israel. See it shut down college campuses and force students to study online. See it outlaw freedom of speech, outlaw all criticisms of Marxism and Islam, as forms of violence and aggression, and transform free societies into closed, sealed, ideological echo chambers. See Marxists promote black power and the extermination of whites. See Marxists reject the existence of genes forming sex chromosomes, proclaim that gender can be changed by human action or belief, and champion the rights of so-called transgender individuals or individuals who claim to have gone beyond their real gender and become members of the opposite gender. See professional agitators and propagandists organize buses, tents, equipment and protesters to bring higher education to a halt. See Marxists promote intersectional politics and organize campaigns of black Marxists, female Marxists, gay Marxists and lesbian Marxists to overthrow civilization. See Marxists promote racism and sexism in the name of diversity and inclusion, proclaim there are too many white males in schools and workplaces, and promote discrimination against white males as the highest form of fairness and equity. See Marxists condemn capitalism as a lash of patriarchy. See Marxists smash statues of the West, statues of William Shakespeare, Charles Dickens, John Locke, Thomas Jefferson, the Declaration of Independence, and the Age of Enlightenment, and sweep the debris into the dustbin of history. See Marxist factions, fractions, margins and masses unite under a terrifying slogan, the cry of barbarism in the twenty first century. See them shout, Proletarians, blacks, women, transgenders, gays and lesbians of the world, unite and smash the chains of freedom!: "Seventy years ago, William Golding wrote Lord of the Flies, a brutal novel that sent shivers down our collective spines by exposing the raw hate and brutality hiding in the dark corners of our minds. Showing that such evil could be present in a group of young school age children made the tale all the more harrowing. Today we have a scenario unfolding on university campuses across the US that threatens to come close. The viciousness is already in evidence, with mobs of people chanting death to Jews, death to Israel and death to America. Watching students screaming and spitting at Jewish students while blocking them from entering the university shocks the senses. Others have vocally endorsed Hamas, a terrorist group that murdered 1,200 civilians in Israel only five months back, and called for more of the same. Understandably, Jewish students have left campuses fearing harm, and most disturbing, many faculty members have supported and even joined in the so-called Palestinian protests. Columbia University was overrun and has already turned to online classes, while USC canceled graduation events. Other campuses plan to follow suit. In the insane world of victimology that divides the world into the oppressed and their oppressors, there are many strange bedfellows. Those who might have championed Black Lives Matter in 2020 and those marching for transgender freedom in 2022 now join the Islamic jihad against Israel, America and all Western civilization represents. This is happening despite what should be obvious incompatibilities among the groups. Trannies for Hamas is the ultimate oxymoron. But the idea misery loves company holds true. The bond of victimhood needs no other cohesion than the hierarchy of intersectionality. Also telling is the outrage expressed by students when there is pushback to their disruptive efforts on campus. One protester was genuinely confused, saying they are only doing what they have been taught in school. This sentiment is the buried lede that exposes the operation, not as an organic outcry from concerned students, but as a planned anarchy with its roots in a much more sinister and coordinated effort toward cultural destruction that is being taught at these very universities. How can this be happening in America? I don't think anyone should be surprised by these behaviors. The Marxist based intersectionality, DEI, blatantly racist antiracism, angry transgenderism and lesbian feminism being taught on campuses would not likely end any other way. The classic Marxist slogan, Workers of the world, unite!, would be appropriate if any of these people actually worked. Fractionalized and marginalized woke tribes now look for any offense, from microaggressions that defy reason to the recalibrating of words and speech as actual violence. Anything could trigger a reaction. William Shakespeare, Charles Dickens and the Declaration of Independence have all earned a trigger warning lest some unsuspecting student be assaulted by the words therein. Even the woke word trigger itself has now been canceled as an evil remnant of the oppressive patriarchal West." (Lord Of The Flies': Today's Campus Crazies by Ed Thompson). In the eighteenth century, a glorious ship called the Enlightenment set sail and was exalted as unsinkable. In the twentieth century, it hit an iceberg. Built up by two centuries of assault against reason, this iceberg was tipped with a rock called Marxism. The ship began sinking. In the twenty first century, it disappeared beneath the waves, never to return.

AMERICA JAILS TRUMP

A proverb has haunted the world since time immemorial. It testifies to the miscarriage of justice, the abuse of power and the presumption of guilt which undercuts free societies whenever they renounce the rule of reason. Its origin lies shrouded in the mists of deep history and the renunciation which occasioned it occurred in an age beyond the reach of memory, record or tradition. The rule of reason has to be fought for tooth and nail at every moment, and when the struggle ceases, tyranny is empowered and goes on the march. The proverb has appeared in every language of the world and will live forever in the annals of human perversity. Give me the man and I will give you the case against him. If there is a person, there will be an article in the criminal code. Let them bring me prisoners, and I will find them law. If there is a neck, there is a collar. Give me six lines written by the hand of the most honest man, I will find something in them which will hang him. A person exists, and his crime exists. The most popular version of this proverb was composed by Lavrenty Beria, Soviet secret police chief under Stalin: show me the man, and I will show you the crime. This is the most popular version because it was attached to a regime which perfected the art of tyranny and distilled the essence of evil as these had never been perfected or distilled before. It was attached to communism: "It is one of the most popular, depressing and representative sayings about the general powerlessness of people faced with unjust legal systems, characteristic to all countries governed by the communists." (Politics Or Justice?: The Military District Court In Cracow, 1946 To 1955 by Filip Musial). Like a vulture feeding on a corpse, this proverb is alive and well in present day America and has consumed its soul. It has ripped apart its traditions and institutions, children of the Age of Enlightenment, and ravaged the moral power of the former leader of the free world, and in the supreme irony of modern times, rendered this nation morally and spiritually unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, this proverb has been chiseled onto the tombstone of the United States of America, chiseled by the Marxist establishment which rules the nation, chiseled by the Marxist masses which voted the establishment into power in a landslide victory in the early twentieth century, chiseled by the iron law of man and society which states that whenever a society renounces the rule of reason, the reduction of man to a target of state persecution follows out of logical necessity. The tree of liberty is nourished by the waters of reason. The renunciation of reason can happen anywhere, at any time, and at any place and can fell the mightiest tree of liberty. The United States of America, the mightiest tree of liberty in the past one hundred years, has been felled in the twenty first century. The establishment has placed within its crosshairs the national voice of the opposition and opened fire. The establishment has fashioned the legal system into a rifle of suppression and shot dead the preeminent antiMarxist maverick in the nation, the forty third president of the United States, running for a second term of office. It has shot him dead because he dared to be a voice of moderation in a nation radicalized beyond recognition. It has shot him dead because he dared to stand athwart the currents of a culture war started by a degenerate majority. Supporting transgenderism, cradle to grave welfare entitlements including universal health care, the radicalization of education at all levels, primary, secondary and higher education, and borders dismantled, dissolved and opened to migrant scum, the majority has arrested, prosecuted, jailed and shot dead Donald Trump by a distortion of the legal system such that, when dealing with antiestablishmentarians with a national following like Trump, it can no longer recognize the concepts of justice, due process or fair play. Look at America's legal system and see criminal court cases launched and coordinated to prevent Trump from running for president. See criminal court cases launched to deprive Trump of civil existence. See Trump impeached without special counsel investigations or recommendations. See Trump illegally put on trial by the Senate when he was a private citizen. See the January 6th House committee condemn Trump after one sided, partisan hearings in which Trump's defenders were not heard. See Joe Biden deploy federal prosecutor Jack Smith, Georgia prosecutor Fani Willis, New York prosecutor Alvin Bragg, and the 6th House committee in a campaign to jail Trump. See state laws changed to allow massive mail in voting in the 2024 presidential election, and thereby allow massive election fraud and rig the election against Trump, and violate the people's constitutional right to vote in free and fair elections. See Trump jailed on expired charges, inflated charges and out of jurisdiction charges. See Trump jailed on fraud charges with no victims and no fraud. See Trump jailed for inquiring whether all the votes in the last presidential election had been counted and whether the election was free and fair. See Trump condemned by legislative action without a trial, in violation of the constitutional prohibition on bills of attainder, by New York state's passage of a law aimed at Trump abolishing the statute of limitations on sexual assault, so that Trump could be sued for offenses which allegedly occurred decades ago. See Trump then found guilty of historical sexual assault without a shred of evidence and ordered to pay tens of millions of dollars in damages. See Trump jailed and expropriated in Marxist cities, counties and states, by the actions of Marxist prosecutors, judges and juries, in a volley of legalized abuse without precedent in the history of the nation: "Do not believe the White House/mainstream media concocted narrative that the four criminal court cases—prosecuted by Alvin Bragg, Letitia James, Jack Smith, and Fani Willis—were not in part coordinated, synchronized, and timed to reach their courtroom psychodramatic finales right during the 2024 campaign season. These local, state, and federal Lilliputian agendas were designed to tie down, gag, confine, bankrupt, and destroy Trump psychologically and physically. They are the final lawfare denouement to years of extralegal efforts to emasculate him. Indeed, the nation is by now worn out by these serial assaults on constitutional norms: the Hillary funded Steele dossier subterfuge; the preelection Russian laptop disinformation campaign; the two impeachments without special counsel reports; the impeachment Senate trial of a private citizen; the effort to remove Trump's name from state ballots; the ongoing attempt to emasculate the Electoral College; or the radical opportune changes in state election laws to ensure massive mail in balloting. Recently, Andrew McCarthy has reviewed in depth this coordination between White House personnel and prosecutors, long known and long denied by the left. Biden, for example, had complained to aides about Attorney General Merrick Garland's tardiness in getting special federal prosecutor Smith appointed—and thus apparently ensuring Trump was convicted before the election. One, Nathan Wade, Fani Willis's now fired paramour prosecutor, visited and consulted with the White House counsel's office when he was acting supposedly as a purely local county prosecutor. The January 6th left wing dominated congressional committee consulted with the Biden administration in sending forth its criminal referrals about Trump's purported role in the protests. And to handle his pseudo indictment against Trump, Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg hired Biden Justice Department official Vincent Colangelo. Two, the prosecutors' delayed criminal indictments and E. Jean Carroll's civil suit were predicated only on Donald Trump running for reelection. After his 2020 defeat, the loss of the two Republican senate seats in Georgia, and the January 6 demonstrations/riot, Trump was written off by pundits as politically toxic. Then his historic comeback in the subsequent year terrified the left. The reboot prompted the subsequent indictments and suits years after the purported crimes. It was left unsaid that had Trump not been a conservative Republican and leading presidential candidate, he would have never been indicted. Three, most of the indictments either had no prior precedent in criminal law or will likely never be used again, at least against anyone left wing. Moreover, many of the writs relied on manipulation of statutes of limitations. Neither Bragg nor any other local prosecutor had previously transformed a supposedly local misdemeanor into a supposed federal campaign finance violation, a gambit so preposterous that it had been passed on by federal attorneys. Letitia James was the first New York Attorney General to indict a state resident for the supposed crime of overvaluing real estate to obtain a loan, which was paid back timely and in full, to the profit of lending institutions. No bank, after auditing Trump's assets and viability to pay back loans, was unhappy to loan to him. But all were quite happy to profit from the hefty interest—and would likely be happy to loan to him again. James sought to make Trump a criminal without ever finding a crime, much less a victim." (The Travesties Of The Trump Trials by Victor Davis Hanson). Fox hunting originated in Britain in the sixteenth century and involved the tracking, chase and killing of a fox by trained foxhounds, special dogs with high levels of drive and speed and a keen sense of smell. The activity was led by a Master of the Hounds, who followed the dogs on horseback. This traditional activity was abolished in Britain in 2005. It got a new lease on life in America. The nation's legal system has unleashed a torrent of fury against Donald Trump. The nation's majority is the Master of the Hounds and its victim is a man reaching and a candle burning behind a barbed wire fence.
